GOVERNOR FAVORS RETURN OF BEER, OPPOSED TO SALOON

Strategic Move Made by Executive as Delegates Depart for Chicago

FOLLOWS OTHERS

Opinion Expressed in Note to Pomerene

COLUMBUS, June 22.— Governor George White, Ohio's "favorite son" for the Democratic presidential nomination, today splashed into the anti-prohibition pond along with the party's other leading candidates—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Alfred E. Smith and Speaker John N. Garner.

Coming out frankly for the early return of "beer of good quality," Governor White made public his stand last night at the strategic moment when Ohio delegates were preparing to set off for the Chicago convention to press his candidacy.

ADDS IMPETUS

The Governor's stand on prohibition, which also contained a demand for early submission to the states of a prohibition repeal amendment, gave his modest bid for the presidential nomination new importance and unexpected impetus.

Wets of the state hailed the governor as one of their own number today as a result of his statement, which was made in a letter to Former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene of Cleveland, who will place his name in nomination at the convention next week.

In oral interviews following the issuance to the press, the letter to Pomerene, the governor declined to say whether he favors repeal. He indicated, however, that he is willing to follow the dictates of his party.

The governor's letter was given to the press on the heels of a statement by Speaker Garner, saying he favors outright repeal of the 18th amendment, and was considered by many to be a counter-thrust against the presidential boom for the Texan.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF

Beer's return was advocated by the governor as one means of providing immediate relief from what he considers to be the evils of the Volstead Act.

"I suggest a way whereby at least some measure of relief may be afforded by only a majority vote in the next Congress, whether convened in extraordinary or regular session," the letter said:

"I believe that the legalization of good beer would go a long way toward putting an end to racketeering and widespread lawlessness in our large cities.

"I believe now as I have in the past that the legalization of palatable beer would greatly reduce the consumption of bootleg liquor and promote real temperance — a consumation greatly to be desired by all."

Although "good beer" was not defined, the governor said he disputes the Anti-Saloon League contention that beverages more than one-half of one per cent alcoholic are "intoxicating in fact," the

Repeal Of Dry Law Is Demo. Plan

Simple Resubmission Plan of Roosevelt Losing Favor In Party.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The proposal of the "Roosevelt senatorial bloc" to submerge the prohibition issue by confining the Democratic platform declaration to resubmission had suffered a series of rude shocks today.

Although this movement on the part of the Roosevelt forces was carried on vigorously among senators who may be members of the platform committee, they had less hope of avoiding a showdown on repeal in the convention.

GARNER CREATES STIR

The announcement of Speaker John N. Garner of the House, a formidable candidate for the Democratic nomination, that he favors repeal, created a stir among the Roosevelt forces here.

Declarations by friends of Gov. Alfred E. Smith that they will demand a showdown on prohibition cast further dismay in the ranks of those who hoped to "soft-pedal" the issue at Chicago.

OHIO'S GROUP LEAVES STATE

Henry Brunner Says Delegates To Back Ohioan Until Last Hope Is Gone.

MANSFIELD, June 22.—Off for Chicago to launch a presidential boom for Governor George White, Democratic State Chairman Henry G. Brunner predicted today that Ohio delegates may seize the balance of power at the Democratic national convention.

Armed with the influence which tradition has given it, plus the leadership that should naturally fall to a state which has so many party leaders, Ohio "may be able to dominate the convention and force the nomination of any man it seriously supports," Brunner declared.

"And you may rest assured, "that we are going to back an Ohio man as long as an Ohio man has the slightest chance of getting the nomination."

"First we're going to back Governor George White, no matter how much talk there is about Roosevelt or Smith or Garner or anybody else. We are pledged to the governor's candidacy and we are going to be loyal.

"If it is seen that White cannot be nominated and there is a development of outside sentiment for Newton D. Baker or James M Cox, we'll go along enthusiastically

"Both men have refused to let the Ohio delegation consider them as candiates, and our hands are tied as far as starting a boom for them is concerned.

'Petticoat' Army Being Mustered To Aid Marchers

"Let's Stand by Our Husbands" Says Pittsburgh Mobilizer Today

LEAVE SATURDAY

Formal Call is Issued to Wives

PITTSBURGH, June 22,—"Let's stand by our husbands—we didn't help them fight in the trenches and shellholes, but we can and must help them in their fight at Washington!"

This battlecry was sounded today by Mrs. George Huey, petite little leader of the "Petticoat Brigade" of the B E. F., as she prepared to lead a vanguard of ex-service men's wives to the ramshackle bonus camp at Anacostia.

Mrs. Huey, attractive wife of a bonus army veteran, is canvassing veterans' wives and their children, seeking recruits for the dusty trek to Washington. She plans to "hit the pike" Saturday at the head of her "Petticoat Brigade" to reinforce and re-encourage the men already encamped at the capital.

SON GOES ALONG

There is nothing of the Amazon—the suffragette—the clubleader—about this wife and mother. (Incidentally, her seven-year-old son, George, Jr., will stride beside his mother on the march.) She is a wide-eyed, slender little woman with pinched cheeks and fingers worn from toil.

Remember the war days—"Its harder for the women than it is for the men" That's the familiar theme that runs through the outline of her aims for the "Petticoat Brigade," she said.

"The wives of the veterans already in Washington are as much in need as the men If immediate action is not taken on the bonus this week, a group of veterans' wives will leave for Washington Saturday

"And we women who go to the capital will stay there until the bonus bill is passed!"

TO TAKE CHANCES

The brigade of wives and children will take the same chances on the road over the Alleghenies as did the veterans. They'll chance the meagre rations, the bullets and the uncertain transportation.

They're not daunted by obstacles

Rolland Scott Jr. to Begin Trip to Ocean City Representing City

BIG TIME PLANNED

Historic Spots of East to be Visited

A dream is about to come true for Rolland Scott Jr., aged 14, Circleville's marble champion

For many long weeks, since the opening announcement of the local marble tournament sponsored by The Herald and Hildeburn Martin, creator of the marble game 'Mibs,' "Scotty" as he is known to his many pals and buddies, has been dreaming of Ocean City, New Jersey, scene of the tenth annual national marble finals.

And Saturday morning he will begin his trek to that city.

GONE FULL WEEK

And its going to be a big week in Ocean City when champions from many cities in the country take part in the finals. Nothing has been left undone by the tournament directors or Ocean City officials.

Official recognition of the champion will be made in front of The Herald office early Saturday when the boy will leave for the east. He will be given a medal emblematic of champion and each of the boys who took part in the finals for the city championship will be given tokens emblematic of champions of the various districts and will also be given one of the finest Mibs games made by Mr. Martin.

Details concerning the sendoff will be announced later

"Scotty" will go to Philadelphia, Pa., with Ross Archer, marble tournament official. They are to arrive in that city on Sunday where champions of other cities will gather.

TOUR QUAKER CITY

They'll be taken on a bus tour of the Quaker City, including stops at Independence Hall to see the Liberty Bell, and the famed Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Special trains will take the champs to Valley Forge, where they will visit Washington's Headquarters, the famed Washington Memorial Chapel,and have lunch.

Another special train will take them to Ocean City, where the champs will be greeted by city officials and thousands of city residents. The boys will live in big hotels, sleep on the softest of beds, and have the finest of food. Many special entertainment features have been planned. There will be merry-go-rounds, pony rides, ski-ball games, bathing, fishing and what not. There'll be a moonlight yacht ride, a deep sea fishing party, and a big banquet given by the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs at Ocean City Yacht Club. Then there will be a big treasure hunt, with prizes to those who find Captain Kidd's treasure. Theater parties and bathing parties also are planned It's going to be a great week, and one that "Scotty" will remembers for a long time.

ALLIANCE IN EUROPE SEEN

(Copyright 1932 By International News Service.)

LAUSANNE, June 22.— A Franco-German military alliance, bringing about complete realignment of the European scene, is the ultimate aim of Chancellor Franz Von Papen of Germany, International News Service learned today.

At the right moment, Von Papen will spring his plan, which he hopes to effect by first obtaining close cooperation between the two traditional enemies of continental Europe.

Dr. Hermann Warmbold, reich minister of economy, already has started Von Papen's ball rolling by outlining to the French delegates here an industrial cartel system which would bind Germany and France intimately.

The German basic idea is first to convince the French that reparations are finished and done with. Next would come the economic union and thirdly and lastly a political alliance pledging military cooperation.

TRAFFIC INCREASE OVER NO. 22 SEEN

More Through Travelers Visit City Over Newly Made Federal Route.

An increasing flow of traffic has been observed over Federal Route 22, formerly State Route 16, through this city.

The highway extends from Cincinnati over the C C C highway into Wilmington, Washington C. H., Lancaster, Zanesville, Cambridge, Cadiz, Steubenville, Pittsburgh and thence into New York City.

Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New Jersey, New York and other states have been contributing liberally to the flow of traffic over No. 22

Stepmother, Cruel, Jailed

CHICAGO, June 22—For having seared her stepson's tongue with a heated meat knife, for having knocked her step-daughter's tooth out, and for having inflicted other cruelties on the children, Mrs Jennie Pacer 40 was today sent to jail for one year

The victims of the woman's alleged inhumanities were Clara Pacer, 12 and her 11-year-old brother, Edward, whose stories of torture and maltreatment were supported in court by the evidence of a humane society investigator

The stepmother was sentenced by Judge Joseph A Graber who, in addition to the jail term, imposed a fine of $200

Edward testified that Mrs Pacer applied a heated meat knife to his tongue as punishment for the hungry boy's act in taking a piece of sausage from the refrigerator

The girl told the judge that her stepmother, in a fit of anger had pocked her tooth out with a blow of her fist.

Cite Columbus Pollution For Myriad Of Dead Fish

Blame for a myriad of dead fish in the Scioto river in the past few days was placed, Wednesday, on river pollution caused by Columbus industries and sewage. This statement was made by Milton B Trautman, of the Bureau of Scientific Research, of the Ohio department of Conservation.

Mr Trautman with Clarence Francis, game protector, and C. E. Roof and Lee Shaner, officials of the Pickaway-co Farmers' and Sportsmen's Protective association, traveled the river from the Ross-co line to the Franklin-co line Monday and Tuesday seeking the source of the dead fish which lined the shores of the river past this city.

Enough fish to fill several trucks could have been taken from the stream and its banks at the wire dam in the rear of the Container Corporation of America's plant here.

Mr. Trautman, who took several of the dead fish back to Columbus with him for research work, said the fish had been accumulating in the stream for the past several weeks and when the river was flushed by a heavy downpour north of Columbus early this week they drifted here

The stream is now clearing up, Mr. Francis reports and persons who have been fishing there have again begun to line the banks. Most of the dead fish he reported, were carp with some bass and bull-heads also found.

Detectives and Local Authorities Co-operating in Effort To Find Thief.

Special detectives from Portsmouth and Columbus with local authorities cooperating, have been unable to uncover any developments on the $2,000 cigarette robbery which occurred at Dorney coal tipple, south of town, Monday morning.

Inspector Hornberger of Portsmouth, and Detectives Stift and Payne of Columbus, have investigated the case thoroughly and believe that the robber had learned of the cigarettes being in the car and probably boarded the train at Portsmouth to wait for an easy chance to carry out the job.

The train was stopped at Dorney for nearly an hour, giving the culprit adequate time to complete his work.

LAWHORN IS HURT, DRIVER ARRESTED

Walter Lawhorn, W. Main-st, suffered three fractured ribs in an auto accident at Washington C. H. Monday evening when a Ford coach driven by Alex Morian of Reading, O., passed a detour sign and crashed into his truck.

Lawhorn filed charges of reckless driving against Morian and the case is scheduled for hearing Thursday night.

The truck belonging to Lawhorn was badly damaged.

MAYOR DEFEATS CHICAGO GUNMEN

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill., June 22.—Mayor George A. Hahn of South Chicago Heights, today emerged victor in an early morning gun battle with bandits.

He shot and fatally wounded one of two bandits who tried to rob him as he returned from a dog race track with a woman companion. A man believed to be the escaped gunman was later arrested at a hospital when he sought treatment.

'Petticoat' Army Being Mustered To Aid Marchers

"Let's Stand by Our Husbands" Says Pittsburgh Mobilizer Today

LEAVE SATURDAY

Formal Call is Issued to Wives

PITTSBURGH, June 22,—"Let's stand by our husbands—we didn't help them fight in the trenches and shellholes, but we can and must help them in their fight at Washington!"

This battlecry was sounded today by Mrs. George Huey, petite little leader of the "Petticoat Brigade" of the B. E. F., as she prepared to lead a vanguard of ex-service men's wives to the ramshackle bonus camp at Anacostia.

Mrs. Huey, attractive wife of a bonus army veteran, is canvassing veterans' wives and their children, seeking recruits for the dusty trek to Washington. She plans to "hit the pike" Saturday at the head of her "Petticoat Brigade" to reinforce and re-encourage the men already encamped at the capital.

SON GOES ALONG

There is nothing of the Amazon—the suffragette—the clubleader—about this wife and mother. (Incidentally, her seven-year-old son, George, Jr., will stride beside his mother on the march.) She is a wide-eyed, slender little woman with pinched cheeks and fingers worn from toil.

Remember the war days—"Its harder for the women than it is for the men" That's the familiar theme that runs through the outline of her aims for the "Petticoat Brigade," she said:

"The wives of the veterans already in Washington are as much in need as the men. If immediate action is not taken on the bonus this week, a group of veterans' wives will leave for Washington Saturday.

"And we women who go to the capital will stay there until the bonus bill is passed!"

TO TAKE CHANCES

The brigade of wives and children will take the same chances on the road over the Alleghenies as did the veterans. They'll chance the meagre rations, the billets and the uncertain transportation.

They're not daunted by obstacles.

Attempt To Take Gangster's Body Is Halted Today

CHICAGO, June 22.—A gun battle raged over the grave of George "Red" Barker early today, frustrating what was believed to be a daring attempt to steal the body of the assassinated gang leader.

The duel of bullets was waged between Joseph Sobol, a caretaker at Mount Carmel cemetery, and four or five ghouls who invaded the burial grounds in a truck.

The ghouls escaped after a furious exchange of bullets which incapacitated Sobol's truck, but did not injure him. None of the grave molesters were believed wounded.

CHERRY TREE RAIDER SLAIN

Ohio Youth Instantly Killed By Shotgun Slug; Several Others Wounded.

LORAIN, June 22.— Frank Smathers, 59, railroader, was held by police today, facing charges of manslaughter in connection with the slaying of one youth and the wounding of four others when they were caught raiding a cherry orchard at Smather's home.

The orchard owner allegedly fired both barrels of his shotgun at the five youths , then surrendered to police. John Wesneski, 22 was killed instantly by the shotgun slugs which entered his heart. Edward Dominski, 20, was reported in a serious condition with slugs in his left side and stomach.

OTHER HURT

Others wounded were Steve Sklareck, 19; Joseph Kurowski, 23, and Joseph Misnozak, 20. They were taken to the hospital for treatment of minor wounds.

The shooting occurred about midnight, police said. The wounded boys told detectives that they were enroute to their homes after attending a swimming party and had cut through Smather's back yard when they were fired upon.

Smathers said he had warned the youths to stay away from the orchard several times recently, and became incensed when he found them there again last night.

Securing his gun, he fired both barrels but told police tha t he aimed at the feet. Smathers was placed in jail pending the completion of the investigaton.

Cite Columbus Pollution For Myriad Of Dead Fish

Blame for a myriad of dead fish in the Scioto river in the past few days was placed, Wednesday, on river pollution caused by Columbus industries and sewage. This statement was made by Milton B. Troutman, of the Bureau of Scientific Research of the Ohio department of Conservation.

Mr. Troutman with Clarence Francis, game protector, and C. E. Roof and Lee Shaner, officials of the Pickaway-co Farmers' and Sportsmen's Protective association, traveled the river from the Ross-co line to the Franklin-co line Monday and Tuesday seeking the source of the dead fish which lined the shores of the river past this city.

Enough fish to fill several trucks could have been taken from the stream and its banks at the wire dam in the rear of the Container Corporation of America's plant here.

Mr. Troutman, who took several of the dead fish back to Columbus with him for research work, said the fish had been accumulating in the stream for the past several weeks and when the river was flushed by a heavy downpour north of Columbus early this week they drifted here.

The stream is now clearing up, Mr. Francis reports, and persons who have been fishing there have again begun to line the banks. Most of the dead fish he reported, were carp with some bass and bull-heads also found.

MARBLE CHAMPION LEAVES SATURDAY FOR U. S. CONTEST

BIG TIME PLANNED

Historic Spots of East to be Visited

A dream is about to come true for Rolland Scott Jr., aged 14, Circleville's marble champion.

For many long weeks, since the opening announcement of the local marble tournament sponsored by The Herald and Hildeburn Martin, creator of the marble game 'Mibs,' "Scotty" as he is known to his many pals and buddies, has been dreaming of Ocean City, New Jersey, scene of the tenth annual national marble finals.

And Saturday morning he will begin his trek to that city.

GONE FULL WEEK

And its going to be a big week in Ocean City when champions from many cities in the country take part in the finals. Nothing has been left undone by the tournament directors or Ocean City officials.

Official recognition of the champion will be made in front of The Herald office early Saturday when the boy will leave for the east. He will be given a medal emblematic of champion and each of the boys who took part in the finals for tne city championship will be given tokens emblematic of champions of the various districts and will also be given one of the finest Mibs games made by Mr. Martin.

Details concerning the sendoff will be announced later.

"Scotty" will go to Philadelphia, Pa., with Ross Archer, marble tournament official. They are to arrive in that city on Sunday where champions of other cities will gather.

TOUR QUAKER CITY

They'll be taken on a bus tour of the Quaker City, including stops at Independence Hall to see the Liberty Bell, and the famed Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Special trains will take the champs to Valley Forge, where they will visit Washington's Headquarters, the famed Washington Memorial Chapel,and have lunch.

Another special train will take them to Ocean City, where the champs will be greeted by city officials and thousands of city residents. The boys will live in big hotels, sleep on the softest of beds, and have the finest of food. Many special entertainment features have been planned. There will be merry-go-rounds, pony rides, ski-ball games, bathing, fishing and what not. There'll be a moonlight yacht ride, a deep sea fishing party, and a big banquet given by the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs at Ocean City Yacht Club. Then there will be a big treasure hunt, with prizes to those who find Captain Kidd's treasure. Theater parties and bathing parties also are planned. It's going to be a great week, and one that "Scotty" will remembers for a long time.

RUMOR WALKER TO ACT FOR GOTHAM

CHICAGO, June 22.—As an "unofficial tip" James A. Farley, Governor Roosevelt's campaign manager today told newspaper men he had heard Mayor Jimmy Walker was going to be New York's representative on the Democratic platform committee.

"Would that selection be satisfactory to you," he was asked.

"I would not oppose him," replied Farley, "he would suit me."

Farley also took occasion to claim "practically all" of Indiana's 30 uninstructed delegates that were chosen yesterday.

Asked about the statement of Alfred E. Smith that the Democrats' best chance of winning next fall's election was to nominate "Alfred E. Smith," Farley replied.

"Governor Smith has a right to make any statement he likes, Governor Roosevelt is going to be nominated on the first ballot."

3 DIE IN CRASH

LANCASTER, Pa., June 22.—Three men were burned to death today in a smashup of three trucks on the highway outside this city. A fourth man was seriously burned.

The men who perished were: Philip Nobey, Philadelphia, and Harry Smith, 65, and Howard Stark, 30, both of Mt. Joy, Pa.

Edward Nobey, also of Philadelphia, was taken to Lancaster hospital in a critical condition.

The three trucks piled up on the road and the whole mass caught fire. Police sought the owner or driver of a parked vehicle believed responsible for the tragedy. The bodies of Smith and Stark were charred almost beyond recognition.

ALLIANCE IN EUROPE SEEN

(Copyright 1932 By International News Service.)

LAUSANNE, June 22.— A Franco-German military alliance, bringing about complete realignment of the European scene, is the ultimate aim of Chancellor Franz Von Papen of Germany, International News Service learned today.

At the right moment, Von Papen will spring his plan, which he hopes to effect by first obtaining close cooperation between the two traditional enemies of continental Europe.

Dr. Hermann Warmbold, reich minister of economy, already has started Von Papen's ball rolling by outlining to the French delegates here an industrial cartel system which would bind Germany and France intimately.

The German basic idea is first to convince the French that reparations are fnished and done with. Next would come the economic union and thirdly and lastly a political alliance pledging military cooperation.

TRAFFIC INCREASE OVER NO. 22 SEEN

More Through Travelers Visit City Over Newly Made Federal Route.

An increasing flow of traffic has been observed over Federal Route 22, formerly State Route 10, through this city.

The highway extends from Cincinnati over the C C C highway into Wilmington, Washington C. H., Lancaster, Zanesville, Cambridge, Cadiz, Steubenville, Pittsburgh and thence into New York City.

Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New Jersey, New York and other states have been contributing liberally to the flow of traffic over No. 22.

Many of the travelers over this highway are through tourists.

Stepmother, Cruel, Jailed

CHICAGO, June 22.—For having seared her stepson's tongue with a heated meat knife, for having knocked her step-daughter's tooth out, and for having inflicted other cruelties on the children, Mrs. Jennie Pacer, 40, was today sent to jail for one year.

The victims of the woman's alleged inhumanities were Clara Pacer, 12, and her 11-year-old brother, Edward, whose stories of torture and maltreatment were supported in court by the evidence of a humane society investigator.

The stepmother was sentenced by Judge Joseph A. Graber who, in addition to the jail term, imposed a fine of $200.

Edward testified that Mrs. Pacer applied a heated meat knife to his tongue as punishment for the hungry boy's act in taking a piece of sausage from the refrigerator.

The girl told the judge that her stepmother, in a fit of anger, had knocked her tooth out with a blow of her fist.

Tunney States Sharkey Surprised As Schmeling

Former Champ's Card Gave Nice Margin to German Champion

By GENE TUNNEY
Ex-Heavyweight Champion of the World

Written Expressly for The Herald

EDITOR'S NOTE: Gene Tunney, retired undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world, gives his round by round impressions of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight and tells what he thinks of the new champion in the following article.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Nobody begrudges Jack Sharkey the championship but many would rather have seen him win it in a different manner.

Frankly my scoring gave Schmeling a comfortable decision.

In a way I am pleased to see Sharkey the champion. He at last has attained the fame he has been close to for five years.

WON DEFENSIVELY

His is the first heavyweight championship won by an entirely defensive method. He backed about the ring from beginning to end.

Sharkey seemed to have the defeatist attitude throughout. And I am sure, was as much surprised to win the decision as Schmeling was to lose it. However, many ringsiders thought the verdict fair.

Of coure, it is a difficult thing to get an audience to agree 100 per cent on any verdict that is not definitely one side.

The most commendable part of Sharkey's work was the way in which he remained calm throughout.

It is unfortunate that Jack is not about five years younger. He would have a longer reign as champion and a chance to reap the attendant rewards. Jack looked very old; in fact he was listless.

Analyzing the fight round by round I found in the first round an interesting contrast between the confident Schmeling and the cool but obviously respectful American contender. My score card shows that Schmeling shaded Sharkey in the first round.

SCORED AS EVEN

In the second round Sharkey seemed to find himself and looked a little better. I scored this session as even.

In the third round Schmeling did most of the forcing. Sharkey almost throughout backed away and gave ground. Schmeling round by a shade.

Round four found Schmeling continuing to force the fighting at this point it seemed obvious to me that Sharkey was developing the defeatist attitude to which I referred earlier. It was Schmeling's round.

Round five found an improvement in Sharkey's morale. He won this session countering at one point with a hard right that gave him the edge.

Sharkey's gain in confidence was marked in the sixth round. He was boxing more effectively than at any point so far in the fight Extreme caution on the part of both men characterized this period. It was Sharkey's round by a slight margin.

Round seven was about even. Both men landed tellingly. With the opening of round eight Schmeling again took the lead forcing Sharkey to break ground. I gave the round to Schmeling by a shade.

ALL OVER RING

In round nine Schmeling forced Sharkey all around the ring and piled up enough points to win a big margin. Sharkey was listless and languid throughout. There was no doubt about the decisiveness of Schmeling's lead in the round.

Round ten I found both men fighting harder, with Schmeling winning by a neat margin.

In round twelve Schmeling continued his effective offensive again.

Round fourteen. Again Schmeling backed Sharkey all around the arena although no damage was done. Schmeling's forcing tactics gave him the round by a slim margin.

It is unfortunate that the decision was not more popular. A knockout of a clean cut decision would have helped boxing more. As it is Schmeling's followers will not be satisfied until the two men meet again in the ring.

JACK SHARKEY

Last Night's Fights

By International News Service.

At New York—Jack Sharkey, Boston, won the world's heavyweight title by defeating Max Schmeling, Germany (15).

Charley Retzlaff, Duluth heavyweight, defeated Hans Birkie, Oakland, Calif., (5).

Lou Barba, New York heavyweight, defeated Jerry Pavelec, New York (5).

Charley Beranger, Canadian heavyweight, defeated Jack McCarthy, Boston (5).

STILL IN FIGHT

COLUMBUS, June 22.—Columbus continued its hot pursuit of the first-place Minneapolis Millers in the American association today, separated from the league leadership by only three points.

Babe Herman got four hits, including a homer, as the Reds swamped Boston, 9 to 3, squaring the series.

The Red Birds lost an opportunity to seize the lead yesterday when they dropped an afternoon game to the Millers by a 7 to 5 score. In a night game played before 16,000 fans, they stayed on the Millers' heels by scoring a 5 to 4 win.

Weak pitching by Rosy Ryan and erratic fielding by Ganzel and Hauser gave the Red Birds the night game in the last half of the ninth inning.

St. Paul defeated Toledo in a double header yesterday 9 to 4 and 10 to 5

When a man gets into a doubtful scheme for making money his assets depend on his lie-ability.

PITCHERS HIT

NEW YORK, June 22.—Pitchers are supposed to do nothing but pitch, but three major league hurlers had demonstrated today that they can wield a wicked willow.

Milt Gaston, who catches for George Moriarty but pitches for the White Sox, won his own game yesterday by smiting a lusty double in the eighth inning as the Sox nosed out the Athletics, 3 to 1

Fred Heimach, portly southpaw of the Dodgers, drove in three runs with a home run and a single as Brooklyn beat the Pirates, 9 to 2, tying the Bucs for third place in the National league race.

Pitcher George Uhl of Detroit, inserted into the game as a pinch hitter in the ninth inning with two men on base, lashed out a triple that gave the Tigers a 3 to 2 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

GRAND OPERA BEGINS JUNE 29 IN CLEVELAND; STARS APPEAR

Cleveland reaches another milestone in its musical history as grand opera lovers from all over Ohio prepare to attend the season of eight open-air performances in the city's civic stadium starting next Wednesday, June 29th, and continuing until July 6th.

Hundreds of visitors from all over the state will be in Cleveland for the week-end performances and over the Fourth of July, coming in special trains, busses and by private automobiles. Of the four operas to be presented, each to be given twice, these visitors will witness the magnificent "Aida" on Saturday evening, the Negro opera "Tom-Tom" on Sunday evening and "Carmen" on Monday, the Fourth of July.

With the incomparable Mary Garden coming out of retirement in Europe expressly to sing the title role of "Carmen," this Bizet opera which opens the season June 29th and given again July 4th, is assured artistic success.

One of the triumphs of the season promises to be the world premier of "Tom-Tom" on June 30th and on July 3rd when this epic of Negro life and music is presented for the first time with great Negro artists, including the baritone Jules Bledsoe who was the original "Old Man River" of Ziegfeld's Show Boat. Even while in rehearsal critics are hailing this opera composed by Miss Shirley Graham, Oberlin College post graduate.

German opera lovers will see "Valkyrie" on July 1 and July 5 as this spectacular opera is presented with the Wagnerian favorites, Elsa Alsen in the traditional role of "Bruenhilde," and Fred Patton, the Metropolitan bass-baritone as "Wotan," in a great cast. The famous "Magic Fire Spell" and "Ride of the Valkyries" in this opera will make new grand opera history as it is given on the mammoth stage of 50,000 square feet.

Verdi's "Aida" will be given stupendous treatment, with camels, an elephant and a cast of more than 1,000 persons on July 2 and to end the season on July 6.

An amplification system which will mark an experiment in sound transmission, with 28 microphones installed, assures the great audience of 20,000 each evening that grand opera out of doors will be as easily heard as opera under roof.

MRS. DAKIN TAKEN TO STATE HOSPITAL

Mrs. Bess Hart Dakin, formerly of this city and for the past year a resident of Indianapolis, was returned to this county Tuesday by Mrs. Alice B. Schumaker of Whitley-co, Indiana, and Wednesday morning was adjudged feeble-minded by Judge E. A. Brown through the medical testimony of Drs. B R. Bales and D V Courtright.

Mrs Dakin will be taken to the Columbus Hospital for the Feebleminded.

She was in the hospital several years ago but was released to go to Indianapolis to live with relatives.

Chicago Symphony Orchestra Heads Series Of Eight Stadium Concerts

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra, under the personal direction of Dr. Frederick Stock, will be the featured attraction in a series of eight concerts to be offered July 14, to 20, inclusive, at the horseshoe end of the Ohio Stadium in Columbus.

Planned as a state-wide event, and with season ticket prices averaging 25 cents for each of the eight concerts, it is anticipated that fully 10,000 Ohioans will assemble nightly to enjoy these stupendous musicial programs. By moonlight, under a canopy of stars, patrons will be feted with ninety minutes of music and thirty minutes of intermission during which a variety of diversions will be offered

Aside from the Hollywood Bowl in California, where Dr. Stock is to direct a simular series in August, and the widely famed stadium concerts in New York, central Ohio is the only place where such a unique festival of outdoor symphony will be available this sumer. As such the event is attracting nation-wide interest.

In addition to 150 Columbus organizations actively interested in the promotion of the Stadium concerts, representatives have been designed in practically all Ohio Cities within a radius of 100 miles of the capital Miss Miriam Ruggles is in charge locally.

Three types of tickets will be used: adults at two dollars, juniors at 75 cents and box reservations at four dollars. In each case the tickets is good for eight admissions.

Stadium concert headquarters have been established at 421 Chamber of Commerce building in Columbus, where additional information may be secured.

MURDER CHARGES FACING SEXTET

IRONTON, June 22. First degree murder charges were filed here today against six white men in connection with the alleged lynching of Luke Murray, a negro at Atlanta, Ga., last June 7.

The charges against the suspects were at first held at second degree murder. Officials said, however that new evidence had been uncovered which warranted first-degree murder charges.

The suspects will be arraigned on the charges Thursday afternoon. They are Taylor Napier, Theodore Johnson, Garland Massie, Milford Massie, Clyde Elkins and Lawrence Massie. All are from South Point.

TARLTON

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Calvert of Mt. Sterling were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C B. Calvert.

The M. E. Ladies Aid Society held their regular monthly meeting in the basement of the church, Saturday afternoon. The hostess were Mrs. Helen Irwin, Miss Maxine Irwin and Mrs. Georgia Barr.

Misses Miriam and Lila Jean Hedges of Larelville spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Delong.

Mrs. Martin Cupp and son Donald of near Amanda returned home Sunday after a two weeks visit with her mother, Mrs. Alice Spangler.

Mrs. and Mrs. Clyde Mowery and son Harold spent Sunday in Pleasantville. They attended a school reunior held at the school building. This was the first one that was held in ten years.

Mrs. Nellie Spangler spent last week as guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Linsey and brother Arthur Linn of near South Bloomsville.

Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Kreider entertained Sunday in honor of H. A. Mowery, it being father's day, the following guests; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mowery, son and daughter, Mrs. and Mrs. C. C. Kreider and daughter Lucia and Mr. and Mrs Willis Mowery.

Mrs. Bertha Stevens was seriously injured when she fell last Sunday evening and fractured her arm. X-Ray examination proved the fracture to be nothing more serious than torn ligaments.

Miss Cora Hampshire of Circleville spent Sunday as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Hedges.

Walter Boyes of Circleville and John Stevens of Tarlton returned home Sunday from a two weeks vacation at Huntington, West Virginia. They will return there again in the near future.

Mr and Mrs. D. A. McClelland and Mrs. Grace Pearce of Laurelville, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McClelland, Misses Mouse, and Elsie McClelland, Messrs. Leslie McClelland and Pearl Kerns of near Amanda and Mr. and Mrs. Arch Fox of Laurelville were delightly entertained to dinner Sunday by Mrs. Katherine Anderson.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Tunney States Sharkey Surprised As Schmeling

Former Champ's Card Gave Nice Margin to German Champion

By GENE TUNNEY
Ex-Heavyweight Champion of the World

Written Expressly for The Herald

EDITOR'S NOTE:
Gene Tunney, retired undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world, gives his round by round impressions of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight and tells what he thinks of the new champion in the following article.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Nobody begrudges Jack Sharkey the championship but many would rather have seen him win it in a different manner.

Frankly my scoring gave Schmeling a comfortable decision.

In a way I am pleased to see Sharkey the champion. He at last has attained the fame he has been close to for five years.

WON DEFENSIVELY

His is the first heavyweight championship won by an entirely defensive method. He backed about the ring from beginning to end.

Sharkey seemed to have the defeatist attitude throughout. And I am sure, was as much surprised to win the decision as Schmeling was to lose it. However, many ringsiders thought the verdict fair.

Of coure, it is a difficult thing to get an audience to agree 100 per cent on any verdict that is not definitely one side.

The most commendable part of Sharkey's work was the way in which he remained calm throughout.

It is unfortunate that Jack is not about five years younger. He would have a longer reign as champion and a chance to reap the attendant rewards. Jack looked very old; in fact he was listless.

Analyzing the fight round by round I found in the first round an interesting contrast between the confident Schmeling and the cool but obviously respectful American contender. My score card shows that Schmeling shaded Sharkey in the first round.

SCORED AS EVEN

In the second round Sharkey seemed to find himself and looked a little better. I scored this session as even.

In the third round Schmeling did most of the forcing. Sharkey almost throughout backed away and gave ground. Schmeling round by a shade.

Round four found Schmeling continuing to force the fighting at this point it seemed obvious to me that Sharkey was developing the defeatist attitude to which I referred earlier. It was Schmeling's round.

Sharkey's gain in confidence was marked in the sixth round. He was boxing more effectively than at any point so far in the fight. Extreme caution on the part of both men characterized this period. It was Sharkey's round by a slight margin.

Round seven was about even. Both men landed tellingly. With the opening of round eight Schmeling again took the lead forcing Sharkey to break ground. I gave the round to Schmeling by a shade.

ALL OVER RING

In round nine Schmeling forced Sharkey all around the ring and piled up enough points to win a big margin. Sharkey was listless and languid throughout. There was no doubt about the decisiveness of Schmeling's lead in the round.

Round ten I found both men fighting harder, with Schmeling winning by a neat margin.

In round twelve Schmeling continued his effective offensive again.

Round fourteen. Again Schmeling backed Sharkey all around the arena although no damage was done. Schmeling's forcing tactics gave him the round by a slim margin.

It is unfortunate that the decision was not more popular. A knockout of a clean cut decision would have helped boxing more. As it is Schmeling's followers will not be satisfied until the two men meet again in the ring.

Last Night's Fights

By International News Service.

At New York—Jack Sharkey, Boston, won the world's heavyweight title by defeating Max Schmeling, Germany (15).

Charley Retzlaff, Duluth heavyweight, defeated Hans Birkie, Oakland, Calif., (5).

Lou Barba, New York heavyweight, defeated Jerry Pavelec, New York (5).

Charley Beranger, Canadian heavyweight, defeated Jack McCarthy, Boston (5).

Tommy Walsh, New York heavyweight, defeated Maxie Pink, Brooklyn (5).

James J. Braddock, New Jersey heavyweight, defeated Vincent Parille, Argentine (5).

STILL IN FIGHT

COLUMBUS, June 22.—Columbus continued its hot pursuit of the first-place Minneapolis Millers in the American association today, separated from the league leadership by only three points.

The Red Birds lost an opportunity to seize the lead yesterday when they dropped an afternoon game to the Millers by a 7 to 5 score. In a night game played before 16,000 fans, they stayed on the Millers' heels by scoring a 5 to 4 win.

Weak pitching by Rosy Ryan and erratic fielding by Ganzel and Hauser gave the Red Birds the night game in the last half of the ninth inning.

St. Paul defeated Toledo in a double header yesterday 9 to 4 and 10 to 5.

When a man gets into a doubtful scheme for making money his assets depend on his lie-ability.

PITCHERS HIT

NEW YORK, June 22.—Pitchers are supposed to do nothing but pitch, but three major league hurlers had demonstrated today that they can wield a wicked willow.

Milt Gaston, who catches for George Moriarity but pitches for the White Sox, won his own game yesterday by smiting a lusty double in the eighth inning as the Sox nosed out the Athletics, 3 to 1.

Fred Heimach, portly southpaw of the Dodgers, drove in three runs with a home run and a single as Brooklyn beat the Pirates, 9 to 2, tying the Bucs for third place in the National league race.

Pitcher George Uhl of Detroit, inserted into the game as a pinch hitter in the ninth inning with two men on base, lashed out a triple that gave the Tigers a 3 to 2 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

Babe Herman got four hits, including a homer, as the Reds swamped Boston, 9 to 3, squaring the series.

The Cubs slaughtered the Phillies, 12 to 3, with Hoss Stephenson connecting for four hits. Chuck Klein of the Phils contributed his 19th homer.

Dizzy Dean, the megaphone man of the Cardinals, limited the Giants to six hits, winning in a romp, 5 to 1.

GRAND OPERA BEGINS JUNE 29 IN CLEVELAND; STARS APPEAR

Cleveland reaches another milestone in its musical history as grand opera lovers from all over Ohio prepare to attend the season of eight open-air performances in the city's civic stadium starting next Wednesday, June 29th, and continuing until July 6th.

Hundreds of visitors from all over the state will be in Cleveland for the week-end performances and over the Fourth of July, coming in special trains, busses and by private automobiles. Of the four operas to be presented, each to be given twice, these visitors will witness the magnificent "Aida" on Saturday evening, the Negro opera "Tom-Tom" on Sunday evening and "Carmen" on Monday, the Fourth of July.

With the incomparable Mary Garden coming out of retirement in Europe expressly to sing the title role of "Carmen," this Bizet opera which opens the season June 29th and given again July 4th, is assured artistic success.

One of the triumphs of the season promises to be the world premier of "Tom-Tom" on June 30th and on July 3rd when this epic of Negro life and music is presented for the first time with great Negro artists, including the baritone Jules Bledsoe who was the original "Old Man River" of Ziegfeld's Show Boat. Even while in rehearsal critics are hailing this opera composed by Miss Shirley Graham, Oberlin College post graduate.

German opera lovers will see "Valkyrie" on July 1 and July 5 as this spectacular opera is presented with the Wagnerian favorites, Elsa Alsen in the traditional role of "Bruenhilda," and Fred Patton, the Metropolitan bass-baritone as "Wotan," in a great cast. The famous "Magic Fire Spell" and "Ride of the Valkyries" in this opera will make new grand opera history as it is given on the mammoth stage of 50,000 square feet.

Verdi's "Aida" will be given stupendous treatment, with camels, an elephant and a cast of more than 1,000 persons on July 2 and to end the season on July 6.

An amplification system which will mark an experiment in sound transmission, with 28 microphones installed, assures the great audience of 20,000 each evening that grand opera out of doors will be as easily heard as opera under roof.

MRS. DAKIN TAKEN TO STATE HOSPITAL

Mrs. Bess Hart Dakin, formerly of this city and for the past year a resident of Indianapolis, was returned to this county Tuesday by Mrs. Alice B. Schumaker of Whitley-co, Indiana, and Wednesday morning was adjudged feeble-minded by Judge E. A. Brown through the medical testimony of Drs. B. R. Bales and D. V. Courtright.

Mrs. Dakin will be taken to the Columbus Hospital for the Feebleminded.

She was in the hospital several years ago but was released to go to Indianapolis to live with relatives.

Chicago Symphony Orchestra Heads Series Of Eight Stadium Concerts

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra, under the personal direction of Dr. Frederick Stock, will be the featured attraction in a series of eight concerts to be offered July 14, to 20, inclusive, at the horseshoe end of the Ohio Stadium in Columbus.

Planned as a state-wide event, and with season ticket prices averaging 25 cents for each of the eight concerts, it is anticipated that fully 10,000 Ohioans will assemble nightly to enjoy these stupendous musicial programs. By moonlight, under a canopy of stars, patrons will be feted with ninety minutes of music and thirty minutes of intermission during which a variety of diversions will be offered.

Aside from the Hollywood Bowl in California, where Dr. Stock is to direct a similar series in August, and the widely famed stadium concerts in New York, central Ohio is the only place where such a unique festival of outdoor symphony will be available this sumer. As such the event is attracting nation-wide interest.

In addition to 150 Columbus organizations actively interested in the promotion of the Stadium concerts, representatives have been designed in practically all Ohio Cities within a radius of 100 miles of the capital. Miss Miriam Ruggles is in charge locally.

Three types of tickets will be used: adults at two dollars, juniors at 75 cents and box reservations at four dollars. In each case the tickets is good for eight admissions.

Stadium concert headquarters have been established at 421 Chamber of Commerce building in Columbus, where additional information may be secured.

MURDER CHARGES FACING SEXTET

IRONTON, June 22.—First degree murder charges were filed here today against six white men in connection with the alleged lynching of Luke Murray, a negro at Atlanta, Ga., last June 7.

The charges against the suspects were at first held at second degree murder. Officials said, however that new evidence had been uncovered which warranted first-degree murder charges.

The suspects will be arraigned on the charges Thursday afternoon. They are: Taylor Napier, Theodore Johnson, Garland Massie, Milford Massie, Clyde Elkins and Lawrence Massie. All are from South Point.

TARLTON

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Calvert of Mt. Sterling were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Calvert.

The M. E. Ladies Aid Society held their regular monthly meeting in the basement of the church, Saturday afternoon. The hostess were Mrs. Helen Irwin, Miss Maxine Irwin and Mrs. Georgia Barr.

Misses Miriam and Lila Jean Hedges of Larelville spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Delong.

Mrs. Martin Cupp and son Donald of near Amanda returned home Sunday after a two weeks visit with her mother, Mrs. Alice Spangler.

Mrs. and Mrs. Clyde Mowery and son Harold spent Sunday in Pleasantville. They attended a school reunior held at the school building. This was the first one that was held in ten years.

Mrs. Nellie Spangler spent last week as guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Linsey and brother Arthur Linn of near South Bloomsville.

Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Kreider entertained Sunday in honor of H. A. Mowery, it being father's day, the following guests; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mowery, son and daughter, Mrs. and Mrs. C. C. Kreider and daughter Lucia and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Mowery.

Mrs. Bertha Stevens was seriously injured when she fell last Sunday evening and fractured her arm. X-Ray examination proved the fracture to be nothing more serious than torn ligaments.

Miss Cora Hampshire of Circleville spent Sunday as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Hedges.

Walter Boyes of Circleville and John Stevens of Tarlton returned home Sunday from a two weeks vacation at Huntington, West Virginia. They will return there again in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McClelland and Mrs. Grace Pearce of Laurelville, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McClelland, Misses Elouise and Elsie McClelland, Messrs, Leslie McClelland and Pearl Kerns of near Amanda and Mr. and Mrs. Arch Fox of Laurelville were delightly entertained to dinner Sunday by Mrs. Katherine Anderson.

Some cities are dead and don't know it.

There is always something new under the sun. An electric hotbed experiment was recently conducted in Colorado, power being furnished by the Southern Colorado Power Company The operator stated that plants grown in the electric bed had a growth of ten days or two weeks ahead of the plants grown in beds not electrically heated. Another advantage of the electric bed was that it produced a hardier plant, in that they have continous growth. Whereas with a non-electric bed the growth is retarded through uneven temperature conditions. This is worthy of investigation by those interested.

This Woman Lost 64 Pounds of Fat

Mrs H. Price of Woodside, L. I. writes "A year ago I weighed 190 lbs. I started to take Kruschen and now I weigh 126 and never felt better in my life and what's more, I look more like 20 yrs old than the mother of 2 children, one of 19 and the other 18. My friends say it's marvelous the way I reduced"

To lose fat SAFELY and HARMLESSLY, take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning—a bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—but don't take chances—be sure it's Kruschen. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

AID MARCHERS

There are freight cars, Mrs. Huey points out—there are trucks, and there are motorists who, she believes, will not be so unchivalrous as to pass up a group of feminine hitch-hikers.

The actual purpose of the march is to bring home to Congress the "privation and starvation of the veterans' dependents," Mrs. Huey said. But there's a more grim, a more practical reality behind the curtain of that purpose.

To quote Mrs. Huey:

"Why should we starve at home when we can help our husbands eat beans in Washington!

"They want thousands of veterans to come to Washington. Well I hope to lead thousands of women and children there also."

MAKES APPEAL

Mrs. Huey issued a formal call to the wives of veterans today. Her statement said:

"I am making an appeal to the wives of the veterans in Washington in their fight for the payment of the bonus. We must make the men in office realize how badly the vertains and their families are in need of this money. I feel that the best way for every wife to help is to join her husband in Washington.

"If the railroads of the country will cooperate with us and give us transportation to Washington it will be no hardship for the wives and their children.

"We did not help them fight in the trenches in France but we can help them fight in Washington for the bonus that is due them

"We have heard and read of the clean thinking men in the House and Senate who know the money can be paid.

"It must be paid."

JURY DISAGREES

SIDNEY, June 22.—Unable to reach an agreement after deliberating seven hours, a jury hearing a criminel libel case against Grover W. Fleming, editor of a weekly newspaper, today had been dismissed.

The vote stood 10 to 2 for conviction, it was reported. Fleming was charged with defaming Mrs. Harry Stephenson, cook at the Shelby-co home, in a recent article in his paper.

MARTIN FINED

Lloyd Martin of Yellowbud, was fined $25 and costs which he failed to pay and was committed to the county jail by Squire E. C. Friece Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving with fictucious license tags.

He was arrested in the southend of the city Tuesday evening by Deputy Sheriff Bryan J. Custer.

DARING OF YOUTH THROUGHOUT AMERICAN HISTORY IS PRAISED

NEW YORK, June 22.— An epic story of the adventurous achievements of American boys throughout the course of American history is published in the current issue of The Elks Magazine.

"In wars, both on land and sea, in the pioneering fight for existence, in the wild camps of the gold-rush days, the youth of America went out of his way to find trouble, adventure and a living," it reads in part.

"The frontier lad cut his eye teeth on wild animals and Indians. Literally thousands of boys were captured by Indians, and the likelihood of Indian captivity was a frontier commonplace."

—NAVAL HEROES

Admiral Farragut got his midshipman's warrant when nine years old; and his first full command of a vessel at twelve, according to the article. Fighting Bob Evans, Rear Admiral Franklin, Mahan, Dewey, Semmes and Winslow and virtually all of the other famous officers of the American navy saw active service in their teens. Running away to sea was almost classical for boys in the days of the early merchant marine. Captain Samuel Samuels, noted Philadelphia skipper of the packet 'Dreadnought,' ran away at eleven A lad of nineteen sailed from Calcutta to Boston with the aid of a school geography map. Silas Jones, 21, third mate, aided by two fifteen year old boys, defended the 'Awashonks' against Alaska savages after all of the officers and crew had been massacred and brought her safely into port. Len Sanford was sixteen when he started world adventuring and at nineteen was U. S. consul at Tumbez, Peru.

Hundreds of boys enlisted as drummer boys and buglers in the armies of the Civil War. Johnny Clem ran away from his home at Newark, Ohio, and joined the Union army at Columbus at the age of ten and fought throughout the war, being wounded numerous times and cited for bravery in action. Johnny McLaughlin, of Lafayette, Indiana, enlisted at ten and rolled the drums with Johnny Clem at Shiloh and Donelson. Lincoln finally elevated him to the cavalry.

WINNING OF WEST

"In the 'fifties, the Shasta stagecoach was held up near Red Bluff

"Hands up' Keep your seats and we won't shoot!

"Shoot, and be damned," said Billy Dobson, the guard, and planted a shot in the bandits stomach. Then Billy stood alone on the box, one against five bandits who were pumping buckshot into the coach. Down the road wandered Clark Stocking, a gangling boy of fifteen. He shot it out with the bandits and saved the stage.

"In 1788, Henry Johnson, eleven, and his brother John, thirteen, were captured by two Indians on Beach Bottom flats, Ohio. The next night, while camped in a hollow, the youngsters killed both Indians, one with a tomahawk, the other with a gun, which they pulled from beneath the sleeping redskins.

'Sul Ross used to spend his vacations from the University of Alabama fighting Indians. In his sophomore year, he commanded a band of warriors in the battle of the False Wachita, in which a hundred Comanches were slain.

"There were dozens of boys along on the ill-fated Miers Expedition in which three hundred Americans set out to conquer Mexico, and which actually met and defeated 3,000 Mexicans at Miers in December of 1842

"The modern equivalent of the prairie schooner is the airship," concludes The Magazine article. "It is toward the high blue sky rather than the blue deep sea that a young lad's fancy turns these days. Some stripling stows away on every other trans-Atlantic plane and dirigible. Every airport in the country has a flock of juvenile attendants and there is little chance of keeping them from trying forbidden wings

CLOSE OLD ST. RAILWAY

ALLIANCE, O.—The oldest electric street railway in Ohio is no more. Founded 43 years ago, the line has been abandoned because the railway officials could no longer meet the deficit of $400 to $450 a month.

WHITE FAVORS

language used in the Volstead Act.

"Good palatable beer can be manufactured which is not "intoxicating in fact," he said.

The letter added that "I am unalterably opposed to the return of the saloon anywhere"

BELIEF IN PEOPLE

As a defense against an anticipated attack from drys who were expected to accuse him of "desertion," the governor's communique pointed out that he has long believed "in the right and capability of the people to govern themselves."

In the state legislature he voted for measure allowing local option on the liquor and in Congress he voted to submit the 18th amendment to the people.

"I was opposed to the enactment of the Volstead act and congratulated President Wilson upon his veto of the measure. I believed then, as I do now, that some of its provisions are too drastic and render the law impossible of adequate enforcement."

GOOD SWIMMERS CAUTIONED AGAINST TAKING MANY RISKS

NEW YORK, June 22.— Pointing out that over sixty per cent of drownings occur in the four months from May to August and that nearly half of these fatalities are among men and boys under twenty-five years of age, many of whom are considered expert swimmers, Dr. Ernest H. Lines, Chief Medical Director, New York Life Insurance Company, today cautioned good swimmers against taking risks which may result in their death.

Said Dr. Lines: "Contrary to popular belief, a large percentage of drowning cases occur among persons who are considered good swimmers. The reason for this is that these persons, self-confident and at home in the water, take fool-hardy chances, overestimate their strength, and disregard ordinary rules of common sense and safety.

SUGGEST RULES

Dr. Lines suggested the following twelve safety rules as particulary applicable to good swimmers:

1. Do not go swimming alone or at night.

2. Don't overestimate your strength. Because you have been able to swim a certain distance several times that day, does not mean that you will be able to do it again.

3. Never swim across a lake or river or from headland to island, etc., or in unknown or dangerous waters, unless accompanied by a boat and a strong, level-headed companion trained in life-saving A sudden channel of icy water, fatigue, undertows, cross currents or treacherous tides, may carry you to your death.

4. At the first opportunity learn how to rescue drowning persons without unduly endangering your own life and learn how to administer artifical respiration.

5. Do not attempt to swim to a drowning person's resuce in rough or deep water unless no other help is immediately at hand and you are confident you are capable of effecting a rescue without sacrificing the drowning person's as well as your own life.

6. If possible before starting to a rescue, call to someone to get a rope, or a boat. If you are dressed remove shoes, coat and trousers-an extra second or two removing clothing is time well spent.

7. Don't swim for at least two hours after eating, and never go beyond your depth in very cold water. Severe indigestion or muscular cramps may result.

8. Never drink any cold beverages immediately before going swimming.

9. Skylarking in a boat is dangerous. Learn how to enter and leave boats and canoes and how to manage them properly. Beware of sudden squalls and storms, strong winds and a choppy sea.

10. Don't duck or "tease" your friends who are not as good swimmers as yourself. This may create a panicky mind which in an emergency may result in their death.

11. Teach your friends who are poor swimmers to go bathing in pair. (preferably with someone else who is a good swimmer), to stay in shallow water, to beware of hidden holes and sudden drops in the sea shelving, and to beware of heavy breakers and undertows.

12. Never dive in unknown, shallow or rocky waters. Even in clear waters remember that "a deep dive is a dangerous dive."

Married Women Who Work

Unemployed married men and unmarried women are demanding that married women, who with their husbands hold jobs in the public service, be removed to make room for them.

There is some justice in this request but to effect the change is not as simple as it apears to those who are outside looking in. Moreover, a sweeping order discharging all married women whose husbands are working would work great hardship upon many, result in many injustices and destroy efficiency in the public business.

Every married woman, whose husband is able to support her and whose services are not indispensable to the government, should give way to a jobless father or mother. It should not even be necessary to ask it of them at a time when human misery is everywhere. Nor should it be necessary to bring pressure upon public administrators to make the substitutions. Humanity should come before poltics.

These are not the only public dollars that are going to others than the most deserving. While World war veterans are destitute others with more political influence are drawing large pensions for questionable disabilities, although finanicially independent of those pensions. Virtually every community has one or more such cases to blind the public to the needs of the deserving.

Gold Exports

JUST a few weeks ago American bankers and some alarmists in congress quaked and quacked with every shipment of French gold from New York to Paris. All manner of evils, from money debasement to economic collapse, were imagined if recall of this foreign gold continued.

The efflux of precious metal with the French label on it continued unabated. In fact it fled the county so fast it set new records and made history. And with what results?

Did the American dollar follow the lead of the ruble, mark and franc? Was the United States thrust into the chaos of a money panic? No! The dollar came back stronger than ever and new confidence in the strength of the nation's currency was born.

So the bankers who had been viewing with alarm the outflow of gold suddenly decided it was a good thing for the country and began advocating the sending home of the last bar of French gold. It seems that the United States will do more business with France when all this gold gets home and goes into various lines of business expansion.

Of such stuff are panics made. Someone sees a shadow, sets his imagination and tongue to work, and everyone knows the rest. And yet not all those who cry "Wolf," are fools.

Going After Business

BUSINESS is on the up-grade, say what you will. Bank deposits and tax collections are sure indications of community's prosperity and of the business that is behind them. And bank deposits have increased since that abnormal decrease a short time ago. Tax collections, also, are greater than last year.

There's business to be had, and the good businessman is going after it, not waiting for it to come to him. There are quitters in business, just as there are in every other contest, and nothing shows them up quicker than a business depression. Fair-weather business men are the worst enemy of business.

The mistake too many are making today consists of considering the business volume at the peak of prosperity the business normal. With the first fall away from that peak they surrender to hard times and open the door for the sheriff. If he fails to tack up his notice, they claim all the credit for weathering the storm.

The losers in this period of trade transition and economic change will be the backward-looking who fretfully watch the "red" in their account books while they wait for the return of the halcyon days of 1928. The surviving fittest will be those who even now are trimming their sails to meet changing conditions.

SYNOPSIS

Lily Lou Lansing, just twenty and pretty, is studying for an operatic career, but dreams of romance. One morning, on her way to business, a young man follows her.

CHAPTER TWO

"I know that girl," said Ken Sargent to himself. "I'm sure I know her . . . now who the dickens is she?"

Twice he almost had it, her name was almost on the tip of his tongue, but he couldn't quite get it. And then it came to him, all in a rush . . . Lucile Lansing . . . Woodlake, and the Lansing's cottage in the village. . . . Big family of them, poor as church mice . . . the mother taught school, father didn't do much, had a lame leg or something . . . two boys, and three girls. . . . Lucile was the baby . . . what was it they used to call her? . . . Lily Lou! That's it! Lily Lou!

Inquiringly, as if he had called to her, Lily Lou Lansing turned her head, gazed straight into the eyes of Kentfield Carey Sargent, Third.

Instantly he beamed, whipped off his cap. "Don't you remember me? I'm Ken Sargent. Used to come up to the lake in summer . . . you know—Woodlake. Aren't you Lily Lou Lansing?"

"Ken Sargent! Why, of course!" Lily Lou took his outstretched hand, smiled up at him winningly. But her eyes were clouded. She was embarrassed. A flame of color came out and burned in her clear, pale cheek. She thought . . . "Ken Sargent, the rich boy who used to come up for the summers. . . . His father used to fish. . . . He remembers our house, and all of us kids flippity flop in old clothes, and Dad, working in Rufe Fletcher's store. . . ."

"How did you ever remember?" she laughed.

"How could I forget? You nearly drowned me, swimming. You swam too well for a girl. Do you still?"

"Yes—better!"

They walked along together. Talking. Laughing. Surprising how easy to pick up the threads.

"How's your mother and father—and your sisters, and the boys?" he asked, and then forgot to listen while she answered. He didn't care what had happened to her funny family. . . . Gosh, she was pretty! He thought he'd never get tired of looking at her. Her eyes were far apart, very dark, but soft, shadowy. Her skin was the clear magnolia hue that had given her the nickname Lily Lou years ago when all the other children at the lake were freckled and tanned. . . . Her nose was small and perfect, she had a beautifully molded and mobile mouth, a chiseled chin, and a white, full throat.

And her hands . . . her hands were a musician's hands, long, slim, blunt fingers, hands firm and ringless.

"My but you've gotten pretty! You're the prettiest girl I ever saw!" he exploded suddenly, interrupting her story of her brother John's wedding, and Earl's venture into the hay and grain business.

She laughed right out loud at that. The little stiffness that had been between them vanished.

They parted reluctantly. Looked for each other next morning on the boat.

Ken was a marvelous listener. He drank in every word that she told him about her singing, her plans for a future on the operatic stage. She glowed as she talked. She felt glamorous . . . conscious of the impression she was making, conscious of what he had said about her beauty. . . .

"Gosh!" he said, "It seems funny in a way . . . little Lily Lou turning into a Brunhilde—"

"Oh, no! I'll never do that. I'm coloratura soprano. Butterfly, you know, and Marguerite, and the Snow Maiden, and Semiramide, and Juliet and Manon—I'd love to make my debut as Manon—mostly on account of the drama—and then right after it something big like Elisabeth, in Tannhauser, only I'm better in Traviata really—"

"You'll be good in anything. They'll just have to look at you. You'll be another Geraldine Farrar. . . . Gee, Lily Lou, I'll sure be at the stage door when you make your debut, even if I have to go to Milan or Berlin to do it!"

"If you don't like the chops you don't have to eat them," May said, hurt and angry at this slight to her cooking. "I'm sure I do my best. It isn't my fault if they're a little stringy. I have to take what they send me, and I haven't got all day to cook, you know!"

"Oh, May! I'm perfectly satisfied. I'm just—not hungry."

"Must be in love," Raymond guffawed.

"I hope not," May said, a little acidly, but she smiled. Love was at once a sore subject, and a standing joke. Raymond's younger sister, Irene, was always in love, always engaged, always working on a hope chest that never seemed to get filled, and was never destined long for the same bridegroom. May made no secret of the fact that she thought the bridegrooms were mostly in Irene's silly head. Raymond, secretly agreeing, never failed to resent his wife's slurs.

But tonight he smiled back, and May, softening, said a little more gently, "Well, I do wish you'd eat more, Lily Lou. I should think that trip across the bay would give you a real appetite."

Lily Lou shook her head. "Not tonight, thanks." She nibbled on a pickle, while the other two finished the evening meal. They ate it in the kitchen, in the breakfast nook, because it was quicker. Raymond was always tired and hungry after his long day at the Chevrolet factory. May, out of the house at seventy-five every morning, in order to ride down town with her husband, was reduced to one long yawn by night.

After the dishes were done Lily Lou went into the front room and sat down at the piano. The dreaming look came back into her eyes. Her slim, strong hands ran up the scale, each note clear, separate, evenly matched as the pearls in a necklace.

Then her voice, lilting, lovely . . .

Gently, sweetly, through the wall came the sound of Lily Lou's song. It was an old French ballad.

"Plaisirs d' amour. . . ."

May didn't know all the words, but she knew what they meant . . . plaisirs d' amour, the joys of love. . . . Something about the joys of love lasting but a moment, but the memory and the pain lasting all one's life. . . .

She sat up stiffly. "I wish Lily Lou wouldn't sing that!"

"Why, I thought it was real pretty," Raymond said, mildly.

May got up and began to move around the room, jerking misplaced furniture into place.

"I hate it. She never sang it before. Dad's sister used to sing it. You know how we always felt about Dad's family. . . . Dad's good as gold, but the rest were . . . well, they were riff-raff, especially this aunt. . . . She had the voice, just like Lily Lou, but she was too lazy to do anything with it. She ran away with a traveling man. She used to sing that . . . that miserable song—"

Raymond sucked on his pipe. After a while he smiled. "So now you're afraid little Lily Lou's going to run off with a traveling man, is that it?"

Bang went the book May had held in her hand. "Raymond Kittridge, you make me SICK! Just because YOUR sister is a fool! . . . You know perfectly well that Lily Lou doesn't care a thing about boys. She doesn't even know one. . . . Oh, men! Always thinking of things like that!"

"Well, Lily Lou is human, ain't she?" Raymond grinned.

His wife did not deign to answer.

Sweetly, thrillingly, through the thin partition came Lily Lou's song. . . .

"Plaisirs d' amour. . . ."

She sang on. Unconscious of them. Unconscious of everything, but the sweet, new pain that was in her heart.

Lily Lou was beginning to think about clothes.

She came home with a fashion magazine every night, spent hours poring over the ads in the evening papers. "I can't go around looking like a rag picker any longer," she told May.

"That suit looks all right to me," Raymond said, looking it over judiciously.

"Looks terrible!"

"Oh, I don't know. A nice looking girl like you can get by with anything."

Lily Lou felt pleased She looked down at the despised brown wool crepe suit, which had begun life shell pink, and now, after two sessions with the dye pot, was a very respectable brown. Maybe Raymond was right. Maybe she'd better not spend the money . . . still. . . .

* * * * *

In the end she bought the new suit. It was black, with a little cape. "Just the thing for spring," the saleswoman said. Chilly enough these early spring mornings. But she never shivered after she met Ken. Excitement kept her warm.

The elderly office women on the sheltered rear deck of the ferry slowly turned their necks to watch her as she passed with Ken every morning. The sewing sisters in the cabin stitched and nudged each other . . . another romance . . . that dark girl, and the cute fellow.

"He's Ken Sargent. . . . You know, the Kentfield Sargents, the steamship people . . . all kinds of money . . . wonder who she is?"

Lily Lou stepped along with Ken. She knew what the other commuters were thinking. It piqued her pride. She thought, "I may be nobody now . . . but you wait. . . ."

She laughed, under her breath.

"Now what's the joke?" Ken Sargent wanted to know.

She wouldn't tell him. "Some day you will know," she said dimpling.

She felt awfully sure of herself, that first spring.

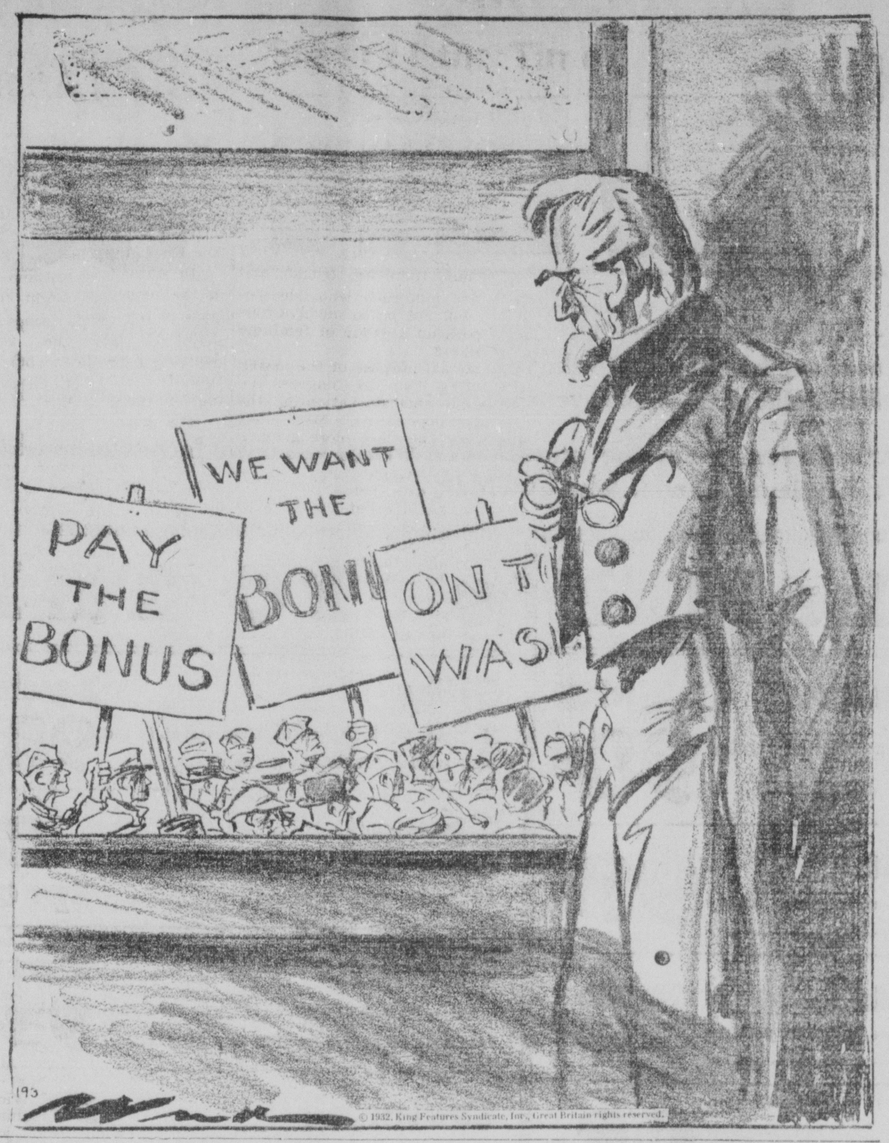
Signs of the Times



Many Headaches Due to Other Ills, But Migraine Is a Real Disease

This Stubborn Malady, Whose Attacks Come with Periodic Regularity, Seems to Run in Families, and Can Be Relieved by Careful Diet and Quiet Living.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"MIGRAINE headache" is a distinct type of headache which seems to run in families. It is most distressing and causes untold suffering.

Dr. Copeland

This form of headache should not be confused with the common, every-day headache, which is not a disease but a symptom of some disturbance in the body, such as anemia, high blood pressure, kidney disease, sinusitis or defective eyesight. Simple headache is frequently seen also in cases of constipation, digestive disturbances, of faulty posture in walking and standing, and uterine diseases in women commonly cause headaches.

Migraine is rarely caused by any of these disturbances. It is a persistent headache in which the attacks occur at periodic intervals—on the same day every week, every two weeks, or about once a month. Usually the sufferer can gauge the time for attack with surprising accuracy. The attacks may be brought on also by powerful emotional disturbances of any type, severe mental or physical fatigue, or marked digestive disturbances.

Since it was believed that the disease is hereditary, and that children of parents suffering from migraine may develop this disturbance, every effort should be made to prevent the disease. These children are usually restless, irritable, sensitive and nervous. They should be given special care and kept happy and relaxed, and outdoor play in the sunshine should be encouraged.

The diet for children of this type should be simple and wholesome, free from salts, peppers, spices, condiments and fried or greasy foods. Drinking plenty of water should be encouraged, and if constipation is present, every effort should be made to correct it. Daily elimination is imperative.

Some sufferers from migraine are benefitted by a strictly vegetable diet and by taking alkaline waters. Excellent care should be taken of the general health, to diminish the severity and number of attacks, and to live a quiet and well regulated life, avoiding all emotional excitement or severe exertion. Whenever possible, a daily afternoon nap should be taken, and every effort made to get out in the sun and fresh air.

At mealtime, disturbances and aggravation must be avoided. It is best not to eat if you are upset. Food should be taken at regular hours and chewed slowly and carefully. The evening meal should be the lightest of the day and eaten early. Alcohol, tea, coffee and other stimulating beverages should be omitted from the diet. Avoid the use of laxatives. Encourage a natural elimination, and if necessary, resort to an enema.

May I warn you against the use of patent medicines for the relief of migraine headache. Many of these so-called cures are harmful to the health.

Theaters

AT THE CLIFTONA

Myrna Loy finds that it pays to be bad—at least on the screen. Having recently scored as the seductive beauty who led Neil Hamilton to ruin in "The Wet Parade," Miss Loy now turns her attention to Robert Young, whom she does her best to convince that a gay life in the Paris Latin quarter is more attractive than serious work during the narrative of "New Morals for Old."

"It seems I've always got to be nice but naughty," explained Miss Loy when interviewed on a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer set during filming of "New Morals for Old," which is now playing at the Cliftona Theatre today.

Blamed It on Her Eyes

"When I played with Ronald Colman as the 'vamp' in 'Devil to Pay,' I asked him if he had any idea why producers always cast me in these misleading-lady roles. I think he was rather unkind when he told me it was because of my eyes."

AT THE GRAND

A merciless killer sets an ingenious trap for Charlie Chan, the famed Chinese detective of fiction, in "Charlie Chan's Chance," the Fox mystery drama, now playing at the Grand Theatre, but is himself killed by the cleverly contrived device.

Warner Oland portrays the role of the canny detective from Honolulu who solves a baffling New York murder while on a visit to the metropolis, a crime other detectives are attempting to fasten on a beautiful young girl and her lover.

An important role is portrayed by Alexander Kirkland, handsome young stage actor who won acclaim for his performance in "Surrender," and other roles are enacted by H. B. Warner, James Kirkwood, Marion Nixon, Ralph Morgan, Linda Watkins and James Todd.

John G. Blystone, dean of Fox Film directors, transferred the story to the screen. It is based on a novel by Earl Derr Biggers and the screen play provided by Barry Conners and Philip Klein.

HAS UNIQUE RECORD

ST. LOUIS.—James A. Hendry, 76, recently celebrated his 48th year of Sunday School attendance without a single miss. Hendry claims he has not missed Sunday school for 48 years and his unprecedented record is said to be vouched for by Sunday school superintendents and ministers of eight different states.

The Daily Horoscope

Wednesday, June 22, 1932

The morning promises much benefit to those who are seeking to work out new ideas. The spirit of inquiry is especially active. A time to work out new methods, make needed improvements and alterations.

The automobile industry is under beneficial indications today. Likewise the signs show favorable to electricial workers, inventors and those engaged in research. Emphasis is seen to be placed upon matters of a social nature. Those who seek to build up club memberships may find this a favorable morning.

The afternoon is somewhat disagreeable as far as emotional affairs are concerned. Friction and misunderstanding need to be avoided. Artistic and musical people may meet difficulties. The critical tendencies are marked and it would be difficult to please the public during the afternoon. Not a time for theaters to put on new productions.

Dressmakers, milliners and those who deal in women's wearing appearel may find this an unsatisfactory day. Lovers of beauty are apt to experience setbacks at this time.

In the evening care is needed in making new agreements. Not a time to sign papers or give important interviews. There is likely to be much restlessness and irritability tonight.

Children whose birthday this is, are lovers of the beautiful in nature, especially flowers, and would make good gardeners. They are great readers, good talkers, have dramatic ability, and later like to take part in amateur plays. Gifted with strong imagination, many of them could become good writers. These children are devoted to home and friends, but their love of travel and eagerness to see new places and meet new people will lead them far afield. They love outdoor life and are inclined to be athletic, fond of games.

Among the many distinguished men born under this date, we find: Andre Hercule deFleury, 1743, French statesman; Henry Rider Haggard, 1856, English novelist; Guiseppe Mazzini, Italian patriot; Frank Damrosh, 1859 famous German composer and choral master for Metropolitan Opera Co., Wilhelm von Humboldt, 1767, German philologist and author.

HEALTH HINTS..

By ARTIE McGOVERN
Noted Physical Trainer

NEW YORK, June 22—When Old Man Weather changes from wintry chills and spring rains there is always in us the urge to get out of doors and into the bright sunshine. Everyone in this day knows that the sun is Nature's great purifier and destroyer of disease, but too often we attempt to take its benefits in overdoses.

Sun baths are wonderful restorers of energy and health, but they cannot be indulged in without discrimination and moderation. If we expose our bodies to the strong rays of the sun for hours at a time, the inevitable and harmful sun-burn is the result and, instead of making us feel stronger and more alive, we find that we are lethargic, ennevated, and, if the burn is severe, the victims of a painful and ofttimes dangerous condition.

For the sun bather, my advice is to go slowly and carefully along the path to a healthy Summer tan. Ten and fifteen minute exposures to the sun are plenty for the start. Then, if the skin does not show a marked reaction increase to the sixty minute point which is, from health standpoint, the absolute time limit.

Married Women Who Work

Unemployed married men and unmarried women are demanding that married women, who with their husbands hold jobs in the public service, be removed to make room for them.

There is some justice in this request but to effect the change is not as simple as it apears to those who are outside looking in. Moreover, a sweeping order discharging all married women whose husbands are working would work great hardship upon many, result in many injustices and destroy efficiency in the public business.

Every married woman, whose husband is able to support her and whose services are not indispensable to the government, should give way to a jobless father or mother. It should not even be necessary to ask it of them at a time when human misery is everywhere Nor should it be necessary to bring pressure upon public administrators to make the substitutions. Humanity should come before politics.

These are not the only public dollars that are going to others than the most deserving. While World war veterans are destitute others with more political influence are drawing large pensions for questionable disabilities, although financially independent of those pensions. Virtually every community has one or more such cases to blind the public to the needs of the deserving.

Gold Exports

JUST a few weeks ago American bankers and some alarmists in congress quaked and quacked with every shipment of French gold from New York to Paris All manner of evils, from money debasement to economic collapse, were imagined if recall of this foreign gold continued.

The efflux of precious metal with the French label on it continued unabated. In fact it fled the country so fast it set new records and made history. And with what results?

Did the American dollar follow the lead of the ruble, mark and franc? Was the United States thrust into the chaos of a money panic? No! The dollar came back stronger than ever and new confidence in the strength of the nation's currency was born.

So the bankers who had been viewing with alarm the outflow of gold suddenly decided it was a good thing for the country and began advocating the sending home of the last bar of French gold It seems that the United States will do more business with France when all this gold gets home and goes into various lines of business expansion.

Of such stuff are panics made Someone sees a shadow, sets his imagination and tongue to work, and everyone knows the rest. And yet not all those who cry "Wolf," are fools.

Going After Business

BUSINESS is on the up-grade, say what you will. Bank deposits and tax collections are sure indications of community's prosperity and of the business that is behind them. And bank deposits have increased since that abnormal decrease a short time ago. Tax collections, also, are greater than last year.

There's business to be had, and the good businessman is going after it, not waiting for it to come to him. There are quitters in business, just as there are in every other contest, and nothing shows them up quicker than a business depression. Fair-weather business men are the worst enemy of business

The mistake too many are making today consists of considering the business volume at the peak of prosperity the business normal With the first fall away from that peak they surrender to hard times and open the door for the sheriff If he fails to tack up his notice, they claim all the credit for weathering the storm.

The losers in this period of trade transition and economic change will be the backward-looking who fretfully watch the "red" in their account books while they wait for the return of the halcyon days of 1928 The surviving fittest will be those who even now are trimming their sails to meet changing conditions

Lily Lou Lansing, just twenty and pretty, is studying for an operatic career, but dreams of romance. One morning, on her way to business, a young man follows her.

CHAPTER TWO

"I know that girl," said Ken Sargent to himself. "I'm sure I know her . . . now who the dickens is she?"

Twice he almost had it, her name was almost on the tip of his tongue, but he couldn't quite get it. And then it came to him, all in a rush . . . Lucile Lansing . . . Woodlake, and the Lansing's cottage in the village. . . . Big family of them, poor as church mice . . . the mother taught school, father didn't do much, had a lame leg or something . . . two boys, and three girls. . . . Lucile was the baby . . . what was it they used to call her? . . . Lily Lou! That's it! Lily Lou!

Inquiringly, as if he had called to her, Lily Lou Lansing turned her head, gazed straight into the eyes of Kentfield Carey Sargent, Third.

Instantly he beamed, whipped off his cap. "Don't you remember me? I'm Ken Sargent. Used to come up to the lake in summer . . . you know —Woodlake. Aren't you Lily Lou Lansing?"

"Ken Sargent! Why, of course!" Lily Lou took his outstretched hand, smiled up at him winningly. But her eyes were clouded. She was embarrassed. A flame of color came out and burned in her clear, pale cheek. She thought . . . "Ken Sargent, the rich boy who used to come up for the summers. . . . His father used to fish . He remembers our house, and all of us kids flippity flop in old clothes, and Dad, working in Rufe Fletcher's store. . ."

"How did you ever remember?" she laughed.

"How could I forget? You nearly drowned me, swimming. You swam too well for a girl. Do you still?"

"Yes—better!"

They walked along together. Talking. Laughing Surprising how easy to pick up the threads.

"How's your mother and father —and your sisters, and the boys?" he asked, and then forgot to listen while she answered. He didn't care what had happened to her funny family. . . . Gosh, she was pretty! He thought he'd never get tired of looking at her. Her eyes were far apart, very dark, but soft, shadowy. Her skin was the clear magnolia hue that had given her the nickname Lily Lou years ago when all the other children at the lake were freckled and tanned. . . Her nose was small and perfect, she had a beautifully molded and mobile mouth, a chiseled chin, and a white, full throat.

And her hands . . . her hands were a musician's hands, long, slim, blunt fingers, hands firm and ringless.

"My but you've gotten pretty! You're the prettiest girl I ever saw!" he exploded suddenly, interrupting her story of her brother John's wedding, and Earl's venture into the hay and grain business.

She laughed right out loud at that. The little stiffness that had been between them vanished.

They parted reluctantly. Looked for each other next morning on the boat.

Ken was a marvelous listener. He drank in every word that she told him about her singing, her plans for a future on the operatic stage. She glowed as she talked. She felt glamorous . . . conscious of the impression she was making, conscious of what he had said about her beauty . . .

"Gosh!" he said, "It seems funny in a way . . . little Lily Lou turning into a Brunhilde—"

"Oh, no! I'll never do that. I'm coloratura soprano. Butterfly, you know, and Marguerite, and the Snow Maiden, and Semiramide, and Juliet and Manon—I'd love to make my debut as Manon—mostly on account of the drama—and then right after it something big like Elsabeth, in Tannhauser, only I'm better in Traviata really—"

"You'll be good in anything. They'll just have to look at you. You'll be another Geraldine Farrar. . . . Gee, Lily Lou, I'll sure be at the stage door when you make your debut, even if I have to go to Milan or Berlin to do it!"

Lily Lou came home and hardly tasted her dinner.

"If you don't like the chops you don't have to eat them," May said, hurt and angry at this slight to her cooking. "I'm sure I do my best It isn't my fault if they're a little stringy. I have to take what they send me, and I haven't got all day to cook, you know!"

"Oh, May! I'm perfectly satisfied. I'm just—not hungry."

"Must be in love," Raymond guffawed.

"I hope not," May said, a little acidly, but she smiled. Love was at once a sore subject, and a standing joke. Raymond's younger sister, Irene, was always in love, always engaged, always working on a hope chest that never seemed to get filled, and was never destined long for the same bridegroom May made no secret of the fact that she thought the bridegrooms were mostly in Irene's silly head Raymond, secretly agreeing, never failed to resent his wife's slurs.

But tonight he smiled back, and May, softening, said a little more gently, "Well, I do wish you'd eat more, Lily Lou. I should think that trip across the bay would give you a real appetite."

Lily Lou shook her head "Not tonight, thanks." She nibbled on a pickle, while the other two finished the evening meal. They ate it in the kitchen, in the breakfast nook, because it was quicker. Raymond was always tired and hungry after his long day at the Chevrolet factory. May, out of the house at seven-twenty-five every morning, in order to ride down town with her husband, was reduced to one long yawn by night.

After the dishes were done Lily Lou went into the front room and sat down at the piano. The dreaming look came back into her eyes. Her slim, strong hands ran up the scale, each note clear, separate, evenly matched as the pearls in a necklace.

Then her voice, lilting, lovely . . .

Gently, sweetly, through the wall came the sound of Lily Lou's song. It was an old French ballad.

"Plaisirs d' amour. . . ."

May didn't know all the words, but she knew what they meant . . . plaisirs d' amour, the joys of love. . . . Something about the joys of love lasting but a moment, but the memory and the pain lasting all one's life. . . .

She sat up stiffly. "I wish Lily Lou wouldn't sing that!"

"Why, I thought it was real pretty," Raymond said, mildly.

May got up and began to move around the room, jerking misplaced furniture into place.

"I hate it. She never sang it before. Dad's sister used to sing it You know how we always felt about Dad's family. . . . Dad's good as gold, but the rest were . . . well they were riff-raff, especially this aunt. . . . She had the voice, just like Lily Lou, but she was too lazy to do anything with it. She ran away with a traveling man. She used to sing that . . . that miserable song—"

Raymond sucked on his pipe After a while he smiled. "So now you're afraid little Lily Lou's going to run off with a traveling man, is that it?"

Bang went the book May had held in her hand. "Raymond Kittridge, you make me SICK! Just because YOUR sister is a fool! . . You know perfectly well that Lily Lou doesn't care a thing about boys. She doesn't even know one. . . . Oh, men! Always thinking of things like that!"

"Well, Lily Lou is human, ain't she?" Raymond grinned

His wife did not deign to answer. Sweetly, thrillingly, through the thin partition came Lily Lou's song. . . .

"Plaisirs d' amour. . "

She sang on. Unconscious of them. Unconscious of everything, but the sweet, new pain that was in her heart.

Lily Lou was beginning to think about clothes

She came home with a fashion magazine every night, spent hours poring over the ads in the evening papers. "I can't go around looking like a rag picker any longer," she told May

"That suit looks all right to me." Raymond said, looking it over judiciously.

"Looks terrible!"

"Oh, I don't know A nice looking girl like you can get by with anything."

Lily Lou felt pleased She looked down at the despised brown wool crepe suit, which had begun life shell pink, and now, after two sessions with the dye pot, was a very respectable brown. Maybe Raymond was right. Maybe she'd better not spend the money . still. . . .

* * * * *

In the end she bought the new suit. It was black, with a little cape "Just the thing for spring," the saleswoman said Chilly enough these early spring mornings. But she never shivered after she met Ken. Excitement kept her warm.

The elderly office women on the sheltered rear deck of the ferry slowly turned their necks to watch her as she passed with Ken every morning. The sewing sisters in the cabin stitched and nudged each other . . another romance . that dark girl, and the cute fellow

"He's Ken Sargent. . . . You know, the Kentfield Sargents, the steamship people . . all kinds of money . . . wonder who she is?"

Lily Lou stepped along with Ken. She knew what the other commuters were thinking. It piqued her pride. She thought, "I may be nobody now . . . but you wait. . . ."

She laughed, under her breath.

"Now what's the joke?" Ken Sargent wanted to know.

She wouldn't tell him. "Some day you will know," she said dimpling.

She felt awfully sure of herself, that first spring.

Many Headaches Due to Other Ills, But Migraine Is a Real Disease

This Stubborn Malady, Whose Attacks Come with Periodic Regularity, Seems to Run in Families, and Can Be Relieved by Careful Diet and Quiet Living.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"MIGRAINE headache" is a distinct type of headache which seems to run in families. It is most distressing and causes untold suffering.

This form of headache should not be confused with the common, every-day headache, which is not a disease but a symptom of some disturbance in the body, such as anemia, high blood pressure, kidney disease, sinusitis or defective eyesight. Simple headache is frequently seen also in cases of constipation, digestive disturbances, of faulty posture in walking and standing, and uterine diseases in women commonly cause headaches.

Migraine is rarely caused by any of these disturbances. It is a persistent headache in which the attacks occur at periodic intervals —on the same day every week, every two weeks, or about once a month. Usually the sufferer can gauge the time for attack with surprising accuracy. The attacks may be brought on also by powerful emotional disturbances of any type, severe mental or physical fatigue, or marked digestive disturbances.

Since it was believed that the disease is hereditary, and that children of parents suffering from migraine may develop this disturbance, every effort should be made to prevent the disease These children are usually restless, irritable, sensitive and nervous. They should be given special care and kept happy and relaxed, and outdoor play in the sunshine should be encouraged

The diet for children of this type should be simple and wholesome, free from salts, peppers spices, condiments and fried or greasy foods Drinking plenty of water should be encouraged, and if constipation is present, every effort should be made to correct it Daily elimination is imperative

Some sufferers from migraine are benefitted by a strictly vegetable diet and by taking alkaline waters. Excellent care should be taken of the general health, to diminish the severity and number of attacks, and to live a quiet and well regulated life, avoiding all emotional excitement or severe exertion. Whenever possible, a daily afternoon nap should be taken, and every effort made to get out in the sun and fresh air.

At mealtime, disturbances and aggravation must be avoided. It is best not to eat if you are upset Food should be taken at regular hours and chewed slowly and carefully. The evening meal should be the lightest of the day and eaten early. Alcohol, tea, coffee and other stimulating beverages should be omitted from the diet. Avoid the use of laxatives Encourage a natural elimination, and if necessary, resort to an enema

May I warn you against the use of patent medicines for the relief of migraine headache Many of these so-called cures are harmful to the health.

HEALTH HINTS . .

By ARTIE McGOVERN
Noted Physical Trainer

NEW YORK, June 22 When Old Man Weather changes from wintry chill and spring rains there is always in us the urge to get out of doors and into the bright sunshine Everyone in this day knows that the sun is Nature's great purifier and destroyer of disease, but too often we attempt to take its benefits in overdoses.

Sun baths are wonderful restorers of energy and health, but they cannot be indulged in without discrimination and moderation If we expose our bodies the strong rays of the sun for hours at a time, the inevitable and harmful sun-burn is the result and, instead of making us feel stronger and more alive, we find that we are lethargic, ennervated, and, if the burn is severe, the victims of a painful and oftimes dangerous condition.

For the sun bather, my advice is to go slowly and carefully along the path to a healthy Summer tan Ten and fifteen minute exposures to the sun are plenty for the start Then if the skin does not show a marked reaction increase to the sixty minute point which is, from health standpoint the absolute time limit.

Some cities are dead and don't know it.

There is always something new under the sun. An electric hotbed experiment was recently conducted in Colorado, power being furnished by the Southern Colorado Power Company. The operator stated that plants grown in the electric bed had a growth of ten days or two weeks ahead of the plants grown in beds not electrically heated. Another advantage of the electric bed was that it produced a hardier plant, in that they have continous growth. Whereas with a non-electric bed the growth is retarded through uneven temperature conditions. This is worthy of investigation by those interested.

This Woman Lost 64 Pounds of Fat

Mrs. H. Price of Woodside, L. I, writes: "A year ago I weighed 190 lbs. I started to take Kruschen and now I weigh 126 and never felt better in my life and what's more, I look more like 20 yrs. old than the mother of 2 children, one of 19 and the other 18. My friends say it's marvelous the way I reduced."

To lose fat SAFELY and HARMLESSLY, take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning—a bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—but don't take chances—be sure it's Kruschen. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

AID MARCHERS

There are freight cars. Mrs. Huey points out—there are trucks, and there are motorists who, she believes, will not be so unchivalrous as to pass up a group of feminine hitch-hikers.

The actual purpose of the march is to bring home to Congress the "privation and starvation of the veterans' dependents," Mrs. Huey said. But there's a more grim, a more practical reality behind the curtain of that purpose.

To quote Mrs. Huey:

"Why should we starve at home when we can help our husbands eat beans in Washington!

"They want thousands of veterans to come to Washington. Well I hope to lead thousands of women and children there also."

MAKES APPEAL

Mrs. Huey issued a formal call to the wives of veterans today. Her statement said:

"I am making an appeal to the wives of the veterans in Washington in their fight for the payment of the bonus. We must make the men in office realize how badly the vertains and their families are in need of this money. I feel that the best way for every wife to help is to join her husband in Washington.

"If the railroads of the country will cooperate with us and give us transportation to Washington it will be no hardship for the wives and their children.

"We did not help them fight in the trenches in France but we can help them fight in Washington for the bonus that is due them.

"We have heard and read of the clean thinking men in the House and Senate who know the money can be paid.

"It must be paid."

JURY DISAGREES

SIDNEY, June 22.—Unable to reach an agreement after deliberating seven hours, a jury hearing a criminel libel case against Grover W. Fleming, editor of a weekly newspaper, today had been dismissed.

The vote stood 10 to 2 for conviction, it was reported. Fleming was charged with defaming Mrs. Harry Stephenson, cook at the Shelby-co home, in a recent article in his paper.

MARTIN FINED

Lloyd Martin of Yellowbud, was fined $25 and costs which he failed to pay and was committed to the county jail by Squire E. C. Friece Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving with ficticious license tags.

He was arrested in the southend of the city Tuesday evening by Deputy Sheriff Bryan J. Custer.

DARING OF YOUTH THROUGHOUT AMERICAN HISTORY IS PRAISED

NEW YORK, June 22.— An epic story of the adventurous achievements of American boys throughout the course of American history is published in the current issue of The Elks Magazine.

"In wars, both on land and sea, in the pioneering fight for existence, in the wild camps of the gold-rush days, the youth of America went out of his way to find trouble, adventure and a living," it reads in part.

"The frontier lad cut his eye teeth on wild animals and Indians. Literally thousands of boys were captured by Indians, and the likelihood of Indian captivity was a frontier commonplace."

—NAVAL HEROES

Admiral Farragut got his midshipman's warrant when nine years old; and his first full command of a vessel at twelve, according to the article. Fighting Bob Evans, Rear Admiral Franklin, Mahan, Dewey, Semmes and Winslow and virtually all of the other famous officers of the American navy saw active service in their teens. Running away to sea was almost classical for boys in the days of the early merchant marine. Captain Samuel Samuels, noted Philadelphia skipper of the packet 'Dreadnought,' ran away at eleven. A lad of nineteen sailed from Calcutta to Boston with the aid of a school geography map. Silas Jones, 21, third mate, aided by two fifteen year old boys, defended the 'Awashonks' against Alaska savages after all of the officers and crew had been massacred and brought her safely into port. Len Sanford was sixteen when he started world adventuring and at nineteen was U. S. consul at Tumbez, Peru.

Hundreds of boys enlisted as drummer boys and buglers in the armies of the Civil War. Johnny Clem ran away from his home at Newark, Ohio, and joined the Union army at Columbus at the age of ten and fought throughout the war, being wounded numerous times and cited for bravery in action. Johnny McLaughlin, of Lafayette, Indiana, enlisted at ten and rolled, the drums with Johnny Clem at Shiloh and Donelson. Lincoln finally elevated him to the cavalry.

WINNING OF WEST

"Hands up! Keep your seats and we won't shoot!

"Shoot, and be damned," said Billy Dobson, the guard, and planted a shot in the bandits stomach. Then Billy stood alone on the box, one against five bandits who were pumping buckshot into the coach. Down the road wandered Clark Stocking, a gangling boy of fifteen. He shot it out with the bandits and saved the stage.

"In 1788, Henry Johnson, eleven, and his brother John, thirteen, were captured by two Indians on Beach Bottom flats, Ohio. The next night, while camped in a hollow, the youngsters killed both Indians, one with a tomahawk, the other with a gun, which they pulled from beneath the sleeping redskins.

'Sul Ross used to spend his vacations from the University of Alabama fighting Indians. In his sophomore year, he commanded a band of warriors in the battle of the False Wachita, in which a hundred Comanches were slain.

"There were dozens of boys along on the ill-fated Miers Expedition in which three hundred Americans set out to conquer Mexico, and which actually met and defeated 3,000 Mexicans at Miers in December of 1842.

"The modern equivalent of the prairie schooner is the airship," concludes The Magazine article. "It is toward the high blue sky rather than the blue deep sea that a young lad's fancy turns these days. Some stripling stows away on every other trans-Atlantic plane and dirigible. Every airport in the country has a flock of juvenile attendants and there is little chance of keeping them from trying forbidden wings.

WHITE FAVORS

language used in the Volstead Act.

"Good palatable beer can be manufactured which is not "intoxicating in fact," he said.

The letter added that "I am unalterably opposed to the return of the saloon anywhere."

BELIEF IN PEOPLE

As a defense against an anticipated attack from drys who were expected to accuse him of "desertion," the governor's communique pointed out that he has long believed "in the right and capability of the people to govern themselves."

In the state legislature he voted for measure allowing local option on the liquor and in Congress he voted to submit the 18th amendment to the people.

"I was opposed to the enactment of the Volstead act and congratulated President Wilson upon his veto of the measure. I believed then, as I do now, that some of its provisions are too drastic and render the law impossible of adequate enforcement."

GOOD SWIMMERS CAUTIONED AGAINST TAKING MANY RISKS

NEW YORK, June 22.— Pointing out that over sixty per cent of drownings occur in the four months from May to August and that nearly half of these fatalities are among men and boys under twenty-five years of age, many of whom are considered expert swimmers, Dr. Ernest H. Lines, Chief Medical Director, New York Life Insurance Company, today cautioned good swimmers against taking risks which may result in their death.

Said Dr. Lines: "Contrary to popular belief, a large percentage of drowning cases occur among persons who are considered good swimmers. The reason for this is that these persons, self-confident and at home in the water, take fool-hardy chances, overestimate their strength, and disregard oridinary rules of common sense and safety.

SUGGEST RULES

Dr. Lines suggested the following twelve safety rules as particulary applicable to good swimmers:

1. Do not go swimming alone or at night.

2. Don't overestimate your strength. Because you have been able to swim a certain distance several times that day, does not mean that you will be able to do it again.

3. Never swim across a lake or river or from headland to island, etc., or in unknown or dangerous waters, unless accompanied by a boat and a strong, level-headed companion trained in life-saving. A sudden channel of icy water, fatigue, undertows, cross currents or treacherous tides, may carry you to your death.

4. At the first opportunity learn how to rescue drowning persons without unduly endangering your own life and learn how to administer artifical respiration.

5. Do not attempt to swim to a drowning person's resuce in rough or deep water unless no other help is immediately at hand and you are confident you are capable of effecting a rescue without sacrificing the drowning person's as well as your own life.

6. If possible before starting to a rescue, call to someone to get a rope, or a boat. If you are dressed remove shoes, coat and trousers-an extra second or two removing clothing is time well spent.

7. Don't swim for at least two hours after eating, and never swim beyond your depth in very cold water. Severe indigestion or muscle cramps may result.

8. Never drink any cold beverages immediately before going swimming.

9. Skylarking in a boat is dangerous. Learn how to enter and leave boats and canoes and how to manage them properly. Beware of sudden squalls and storms, strong winds and a choppy sea.

10. Don't duck or "tease" your friends who are not as good swimmers as yourself. This may create a panicky mind which in an emergency may result in their death.

11. Teach your friends who are poor swimmers to go bathing in pair. (preferably with someone else who is a good swimmer), to stay in shallow water, to beware of hidden holes and sudden drops in the sea shelving, and to beware of heavy breakers and undertows.

12. Never dive in unknown, shallow or rocky waters. Even in clear waters remember that "a deep dive is a dangerous dive."

Miss Wilder, Mr. Wittmer Marry Today

Charming in its simplicity was the marriage of Miss Martha Ann Wilder to Mr. Earl Frederick Wittmer of Canton, which took place Wednesday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Wilder of W. Union-st.

The home was beautiful with garden flowers, roses and delphinium artistically arranged throughout the room, where the nuptial vows were exchanged at 10:30 o'clock. The ceremony was a quiet one performed by Rev. E. S. Toensmeier, pastor of the Presbyterian church, in the presence of the immediate family.

Miss Wilder was charming in an unusually attractive traveling outfit—an angora suit in two shades of blue with hat and accessories to match.

The bride is a graduate of the local high school and attended school at Science Hill, Shelbyville, Ky., and Randolph Macon at Lynchburg, Va. She graduated from Ohio State university and since has been teaching in the schools at Chagrin Falls.

The couple left for a wedding trip in the east, immediately after the ceremony and upon their return will reside in Canton, O., where Mr. Wittmer is chemist at the Allegheny-Arrow Oil Co.

DEMO. PLAN

Despite these setbacks, however, the Roosevelt senators continued their vigorous campaign among senators who may be on the platform committee. It was reported on high authority that Roosevelt himself is agreeable to a resubmission plank.

The New York Governor was reported by a close friend to have taken a position two years ago somewhat akin to the Republican prohibition remedy. He is against the 18th amendment, but believes that repeal should be accompanied by a prohibition against the saloon and possibly state sale of liquor.

MANY FAVOR REPEAL

Senatorial comment on Speaker Garner's pronouncement disclosed a belief that a majority of the Democratic delegates actually will favor repeal of the 18th amendment. This view of Democrats was reinforced by Senator Fess (R) of Ohio, who retired as chairman of the Republican national committee. He flatly predicted that the Democratic convention would be for repeal.

While some of the wets were said to have been won over to the idea of avoiding a declaration on prohibition beyond resubmission, others objected strenuously.

"Personally, I think there ought to be a recommendation," said Senator Wagner (D) of New York. "I hope the convention will recommend repeal. Of course, a statement that repeal of the 18th amendment ought to be submitted would be free from ambiguity."

Senator Sheppard (D) of Texas, author of the 18th amendment and a Garner supporter, planned to lead the "bone dry" defensive at Chicago. He declared he would oppose both resubmission and repeal.

Senator Bulkley (D) of Ohio endorsed the proposal to submit a repeal plank without a recommendation of the convention that the states ratify it.

"I am for repeal but I do not think such a declaration would be fair to the other Democrats," he said.

The movement to avoid a wet declaration by the convention was accompanied by a drive to emphasize economic issues.

Love is a magnifying glass, making you see the rest of the world through the reverse side.

BLAME PART OF LAWLESSNESS ON WRONG KINDS OF PICTURES

Hot weather and vacation time are here and many folks will be off to the mountains or the seashore. Some will be on sight-seeing trips in their own automobiles or by the way of the well-equipped bus or train. This is fine time for those who are so fortunate as to be able to have such trips and change of scene.

But many there be who cannot, on account of the strain of the economic situation, plan for the usual vacation; and for these stay-at homes, the nearest theater may provide the needed relaxation and change of scene as well as entertainment. Such being the case, how important it is that the pictures be clean and wholesome as well as entertaining.

Roger Babson may be wrong but he is usually right, and he makes the statement that the lawlessness of this country is due more to the kind of motion pictures shown in our theaters, than to any other single cause.

Dr. Charles E. Jefferson says the tone of the American cinema is so low that they are notorious in the countries of Europe and even in China and Japan. Surely, this may be remedied if the American people demand it. The producer and the theater owner both cater to the popular demand.

If women of culture and refinement refuse to attend and to allow their children to attend, pictures in which brutal murders are shown and the murderer is the hero of the hour-their influence will be felt and gradually the picture of high ideals and clean fun may take the place of the blood and thunder ones.

It is significant of production progress that of the pictures produced each month one can select fifteen or twenty plays that are clean and worth while. Be a booster for better films.

No Question About It they are Milder!

This means Chesterfields aren't harsh. It means they're not strong or heavy.

Early in the day or late at night you'll find that Chesterfields are always pleasing. They are mild and yet they satisfy.

What's more they taste better, too. That's it . . . milder and better taste. These are the two outstanding merits of Chesterfield.

Plus . . . a third important advantage. Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink . . . as pure as science can make them.

Despite these setbacks, however, the Roosevelt senators continued their vigorous campaign among senators who may be on the platform committee. It was reported on high authority that Roosevelt himself is agreeable to a resubmission plank.

The New York Governor was reported by a close friend to have taken a position two years ago somewhat akin to the Republican prohibition remedy. He is against the 18th amendment, but believes that repeal should be accompanied by a prohibition against the saloon and possibly state sale of liquor.

MANY FAVOR REPEAL

Senatorial comment on Speaker Garner's pronouncement disclosed a belief that a majority of the Democratic delegates actually will favor repeal of the 18th amendment. This view of Democrats was reinforced by Senator Fess (R) of Ohio, who retired as chairman of the Republican national committee. He flatly predicted that the Democratic convention would be for repeal.

While some of the wets were said to have been won over to the idea of avoiding a declaration on prohibition beyond resubmission, others objected strenuously.

"Personally, I think there ought to be a recommendation," said Senator Wagner (D) of New York. "I hope the convention will recommend repeal. Of course, a statement that repeal of the 18th amendment ought to be submitted would be free from ambiguity."

Senator Sheppard (D) of Texas, author of the 18th amendment and a Garner supporter, planned to lead the "bone dry" defensive at Chicago. He declared he would oppose both resubmission and repeal.

Senator Bulkley (D) of Ohio endorsed the proposal to submit a repeal plank without a recommendation of the convention that the states ratify it.

"I am for repeal but I do not think such a declaration would be fair to the other Democrats," he said.

The movement to avoid a wet declaration by the convention was accompanied by a drive to emphasize economic issues.

BLAME PART OF LAWLESSNESS ON WRONG KINDS OF PICTURES

Hot weather and vacation time are here and many folks will be off to the mountains or the seashore. Some will be on sight-seeing trips in their own automobiles or by the way of the well-epuipped bus or train. This is fine time for those who are so fortunate as to be able to have such trips and change of scene.

But many there be who cannot, on account of the strain of the economic sifuation, plan for the usual vacation; and for these stay-at homes, the nearest theater may provide the needed relaxation and change of scene as well as entertainment. Such being the case, how important it is that the pictures be clean and wholesome as well as entertaining.

Roger Babson may be wrong but he is usually right, and he makes the statement that the lawlessness of this country is due more to the kind of motion pictures shown in our theaters, than to any other single cause.

Dr. Charles E. Jefferson says the tone of the American cinema is so low that they are notorious in the countries of Europe and even in China and Japan. Surely, this may be remedied if the American people demand it. The producer and the theater owner both cater to the popular demand.

If women of culture and refinement refuse to attend and to allow their children to attend, pictures in which brutal murders are shown and the murderer is the hero of the hour-their influence will be felt and gradually the picture of high ideals and clean fun may take the place of the blood and thunder ones.

It is significant of production progress that of the pictures produced each month one can select fifteen or twenty plays that are clean and worth while. Be a booster for better films.

No Question About It

they are Milder!

YOU'RE RIGHT . . . there's one thing that stands out about Chesterfield. That is . . . they're Milder.

This means Chesterfields aren't harsh. It means they're not strong or heavy.

Early in the day or late at night you'll find that Chesterfields are always pleasing. They are mild and yet they satisfy.

What's more they taste better, too. That's it . . . milder and better taste. These are the two outstanding merits of Chesterfield.

Plus . . . a third important advantage. Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink . . . as pure as science can make them.
